Canada Will Name Commission On Alaska Road

Pattullo Announces Premier King Consents To Aid Exploration

Fact-finding

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister King has agreed to the appointing of a Canadian commission to co-operate as a fact-finding body with a similar United States commission on the proposed highway from the United States through British Columbia and the Yukon Territory to Alaska.

Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia, who has been in Ottawa two days conferring with Dominion ministers, made the announcement today.

The U.S. commission on the Alaska Highway was appointed several weeks ago by President Roosevelt.

Following their appointment three members of the commission paid a visit to Victoria and suggested to Premier Pattullo that he urge Ottawa to appoint a similar body so the two could work together to formulate a plan for building the road. This Premier Pattullo promised.

FACTORIES COULD MAKE BREN GUNS

Arms Expert Heard at Ottawa at Inquiry Into Machine Gun Contract

OTTAWA (P)—Suggestion the parts of the Bren machine gun could readily be made in many Canadian metal-working plants, was made today by Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew at the inquiry into the Bren gun contract.

Col. Drew was cross-examining Lieut. M. P. Jolley, small arms expert from the Defence Department, who said many parts of the gun required very precise work and very small tolerances (space allowed between parts).

"But is there any doubt many manufacturers in Canada could make these parts?" asked Lieut.-Col. Drew.

"No," said the witness, "if they had the equipment and provided they had opportunity to experiment with the gun or had access to the methods of experienced manufacturers of the gun."

The commission also heard from Lieut. Jolley that four months before Major J. E. Hahn made his first proposal to the Department of National Defence, Lieut. Jolley discussed the Bren machine gun with the manager of a rifle factory.

ACTRESS HURT

NEW YORK (AP) — Helen Vinson, motion picture actress and wife of the British tennis player, Fred Perry, was seriously injured today in a collision of three automobiles at a midtown intersection.

Miss Vinson suffered a deep cut beneath the chin and contusions of the back, legs and body.

DEWEY NOMINATION

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times, Independent, in a dispatch from Saratoga Springs, N.Y., where the Republican Party state convention opened today, said it was learned authoritatively that District Attorney Thomas Dewey would be nominated by acclamation as the party's candidate for governor and that Dewey would accept.

LATE AUTHOR'S SON PRISONER

James P. Lardner, Who Went From U.S., Held By Spanish Insurgents

BARCELONA (AP) — James P. Lardner, 24-year-old son of the late Ring Lardner, was disclosed today to have been captured by Spanish insurgents during the night of September 22 in the last action of the International Brigade fighting for the Spanish government.

Lardner joined the International Brigade last April after entering Spain as a reporter for the Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune. He was wounded July 27 in the government's Ebro River drive near Gandesa. Following his recovery he returned to the front lines September 6.

MYSTERY ILLNESS DEATH IS PROBED

Two-year-old Boy Dead, Four Children Ill In New Westminster

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Police and hospital authorities studied today a mysterious illness which brought death to two-year-old Eric Benz of nearby Langley municipality and sent his sister and three brothers to hospital.

Eric died Monday, 24 hours after he had been taken to the hospital with his brothers and sisters. The others were reported "improved" today.

The inquest on Eric's death was adjourned yesterday to await a report from Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, chief of the Vancouver police department's science bureau, who is analyzing the boy's stomach contents.

Health authorities were unable to find any contagion in the family's water supply.

Manion Seeks London Seat

C.C.F. Expected to Prevent Him Getting Acclamation to Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, said today he would seek a seat in the House of Commons in the London, Ont., federal by-election next November 14.

He issued a statement which said: "I have advised the National Conservative Association of London of my willingness to allow my name to be presented to the convention, shortly to be called to choose a National Conservative candidate. I feel deeply honored that the Conservative Association in the splendid riding of London should seek me as their candidate, and I assure them of my constant desire to serve them and Canada.

"The same time, I should like to express my appreciation of the kindness of the Conservative Association of Brandon and Waterloo South, both of which offered me nominations."

Referring to Prime Minister King's announcement following the cabinet session last night that he would like to see Dr. Manion unopposed in London, the Conservative leader said:

"I wish to express my warm appreciation of the Prime Minister's courtesy in indicating the government's desire that I should not be opposed in the by-election in London. Such an action is a very happy expression of the amenities of public life in Canada."

Besides London, federal by-elections will be held November 14 in Waterloo South, Brandon and Montreal-Cartier.

There were indications in London that Dr. Manion would not be given an acclamation, as the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation intends to run E. O. Hall as its candidate.

Officers' Training At U.B.C. Changed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps at the University of British Columbia said today "only a slight increase" in registration with the unit had been noted despite the European crisis. No figures were released, however.

A revision of the C.O.T.C. training plan at the university was also made known. Officers said they would concentrate this year on anti-gas drill, practical fieldcraft and weapon training, with old-time drill movements reduced to a minimum.

Czechs Ask for Voice in Powers' Talk at Munich

Want Delegate at British-French-Italian-German Conference

LONDON (AP) — Czechoslovakia tonight requested some form of representation at the epochal four-power conference which will open at Munich tomorrow to discuss her fate.

Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia minister to Britain, in a letter to Prime Minister Chamberlain, asked that his country be represented by a spokesman, expert or observer, if not by a delegate ranking equally with those of Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy.

As soon as Masaryk heard Mr. Chamberlain's startling announcement of the conference in the House of Commons today he immediately telephoned Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary.

Since Lord Halifax, listening to the Prime Minister's speech in the Peers' Gallery of the House, could not be reached at once, the minister wrote an urgent letter to Mr. Chamberlain.

At a late hour he had not received a reply.

Czechoslovak quarters in London commented with emphasis on the fact that neither Czechoslovakia nor Russia had been invited to the parley called to discuss the future frontiers of the little republic.

The Czechoslovak request also was sent to Premier Daladier of France.

British Defence Planes Exercise

LONDON (AP) — The Air Ministry sent fighting planes into the air at strategic points over London and the east and south coasts today.

An announcement by the ministry said: "The flights are for training purposes only and will take place over London and in the vicinity of the east and south coasts. The first flight will take place this afternoon."

The War Office simultaneously announced night anti-aircraft practice would be held here to "exercise gunners and searchlight personnel who have been called up."

Tension Eases in London

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON—A wave of relief and joy swept through London streets today as news spread of the four-power conference to save peace.

Britons, tense and anxious for days, gasped with surprise. Gloomy faces broke into smiles. Newspapers were seized as fast as they were available.

Newspaper placards told the story thus: "Dramatic peace move," "Premier sees Hitler, Duce tomorrow," "Chamberlain, Hitler and Duce to meet."

Telephone booths were filled with people eager to tell others the cheerful tidings of the lifting of the shadow of war, for a time anyway.

Queen Mary, who had heard Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in the Commons from the Speaker's gallery, was in tears as she left immediately after the speech.

The feeling on all sides was that war had been averted.

Duce Hurries to Germany

ROME (AP) — Premier Mussolini, suddenly become a central figure of Europe's efforts to avert war, left Rome at 6 p.m. (9 a.m., P.S.T.) tonight for Munich, where he is to meet tomorrow with Prime Minister Chamberlain, Chancellor Hitler and Premier Daladier.

Il Duce was accompanied by his Foreign Minister and son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, on his special train.

A vast crowd evidently relieved at the momentary lifting of the war clouds, gave Mussolini an uproaring send-off as he departed to assume the role of mediator in the German-Czechoslovakia crisis.

He accepted the responsibility, informed sources said, at the request of Great Britain in a desperate effort to avoid war. A personal message from President Roosevelt, received at the crucial moment, may also have influenced his acceptance.

Hitler Meets Duce at Pass

BERLIN (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler is planning a dramatic meeting with his ally, Premier Mussolini, at the historic Brenner Pass before the Munich conference tomorrow, reliable sources said tonight.

These informants said the Fuehrer would journey tonight to the pass, where German and Italian territories have met since the annexation of Austria, and would accompany Il Duce back to Munich for the conference with Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Daladier.

Soviet Skeptical About Conference

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leaders received the announcement that heads of the British, German, French and Italian governments would meet at Munich tomorrow with skepticism and great reserve.

The Soviet position consistently has been that Prime Minister Chamberlain's policy of attempting to bargain with Chancellor Hitler can result only in encouraging him to increase his demands.

EYES OF WORLD ON BRITAIN'S LEADER—When Prime Minister Chamberlain arrived at 10 Downing Street after his speech in the House of Commons today he took his wife by the hand as he stepped from his car and posed for a moment on the steps of his residence for photographers. According to a Canadian Press dispatch, although he appeared weary, Mr. Chamberlain still was smiling. The picture above was taken recently when the Prime Minister found time for a brief walk in St. James Park with Mrs. Chamberlain.

GOEBBELS SEES PEACE RESULT

Tells Berliners Amicable Czech Solution Probable in Few Days

BERLIN (AP) — Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels told a throng of Berliners today he foresaw an amicable solution of the German - Czechoslovak dispute "within a few days."

Goebbels, usually a fire-eater, sounded a note of peace as he spoke amid deafening "heils" in the historic Lustgarten.

He did not mention tomorrow's conference at Munich to be attended by Chancellor Hitler, Prime Minister Chamberlain, Premier Mussolini and Premier Daladier, but he declared:

"I, as a man in the know of things, can tell you we neither can nor want to retreat, as the Fuehrer has pledged his word to support the Sudetens, but the solution is imminent."

It was believed, however, he was referring to the Munich conference when he said:

"Herr Benes (President of Czechslovakia) now will be forced to stick to his promise."

"The Chancellor is on guard for peace in these critical days, when the centre of European politics has shifted to Germany," he asserted.

"I ask you Berliners, have you been taught war during the five years of our regime?" he asked and the crowd shouted "No."

Experiment With Coal-Burning Ships

Vessel To Be Built In Britain To Show That Fuel's Advantage

LONDON (CP)—An experimental ship, costing approximately £80,000 (about $400,000), will be built in Britain to demonstrate the advantages of coal as fuel.

With the moral support of the Admiralty, the undertaking is being promoted by interests represented on the mines department committee, which has been examining possibilities of increasing, in the national interest, use of coal for bunkering purposes.

The type of ship to be built will be in the cargo and intermediate-passengers liner class, considered to have the best chance of competing successfully with oil. A company, to be formed if the experiment proves a success, will undertake construction of a fleet of similar vessels.

Peace Talk at Munich

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — Prime Minister Chamberlain will fly to Munich tomorrow for a four-power conference arranged in a final attempt to bring peace out of the German-Czech crisis.

The momentous conference, in which the British leader will meet with Chancellor Hitler of Germany, Premier Mussolini of Italy and Premier Daladier of France, was arranged after Mr. Chamberlain had informed the Italian dictator that he already had "guaranteed that the Czech promises (to cede Sudetenland to Germany peacefully) shall be carried out and I feel confident of full agreement within a week."

When the Prime Minister made the dramatic announcement of the 11th-hour conference to a crowded House of Commons today, the traditional calm of Westminster was shattered as members, fearing the worst, suddenly realized war might be averted.

Members on the floor of the house and peers in the galleries waved papers, shouted their approval and cheered loudly.

The Prime Minister, visibly affected by the unbridled demonstration which followed his announcement, also revealed Hitler had agreed to postpone mobilization of the German army for 24 hours to permit the Munich conference to be held.

TELLS OF TALKS

Throughout his speech at the emergency session of the Commons, in which he disclosed for the first time details of his two momentous meetings with the German Fuehrer, Mr. Chamberlain had spoken in strong and sometimes ringing tones. His voice suddenly became low and apparently he controlled it with difficulty as he declared:

"No member of this house will not feel his heart leap that the crisis once more has been postponed. I hope the House will release me now to go to see what I can make of this last effort."

He sat down amid ringing cheers.

After a few brief speeches the House agreed unanimously on the Prime Minister's suggestion to adjourn until Monday.

BY TELEPHONE

The Prime Minister was making a detailed report on his efforts in the past anxious weeks when news came from Rome that Mussolini had telephoned Hitler and the Fuehrer had accepted him as mediator in the crisis.

Mr. Chamberlain revealed the Chancellor's invitation for the Munich meeting followed his own appeal to the Italian dictator to restrain the Reichsfuehrer.

The prelude to the historic announcement, changing the aspect of world affairs for the moment at least, came just as Mr. Chamberlain was finishing a 1½-hour spech to the tense Commons.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, handed the Prime Minister a sheet of paper. Even as Mr. Chamberlain read it the British fleet was mobilizing and uncounted millions of men were under arms in Britain, France, Russia and Czechoslovakia, Germany and Italy.

The Prime Minister lifted tired eyes from the paper and announced the invitation to the four-power conference.

When the cheering had subsided Mr. Chamberlain went on: "I need not say what my answer will be. I will go to see what I can do as a last effort."

The hundreds in the packed Commons chamber literally hung on every word as the Prime Minister made the report on his ceaseless efforts for peace and finally brought the story up to last night.

NOT BEYOND LINE

At 12.30 a.m. he had received a communication from Hitler in which the Chancellor said definitely that troops would "not move beyond the red line"—beyond the Sudeten areas into other parts of Czechoslovakia. The Chancellor's proposal was that the predominantly-German regions of Czechoslovakia be ceded immediately.

Hitler said, according to Mr. Chamberlain, that he would abide by the results of a plebiscite (in the less-German regions of Czechoslovakia) and join in an international guarantee of the sovereignty of the remainder of the republic.

After receiving this "reassuring statement," the Prime Minister said he replied to Hitler:

"I feel certain that you can get all the essentials without war and without delay, and I will arrange to go to Berlin at once to discuss arrangements with you and the representatives of the Czech government, together with representatives of France and Italy if you desire it.

"I cannot believe you will take the responsibility of starting a world war which might end civilization for the sake of a few days delay in settling this long-standing problem."

BY DISCUSSION

Before the electrifying last-minute announcement Mr. Chamberlain disclosed he had advised Mussolini today he had sent his message to Hitler, told Il Duce he felt certain the crisis could be dissolved by discussion and asked his help.

Meantime, there were reports in Paris diplomatic circles that President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia had resigned. There were related reports from Rome that Mussolini had made acceptance of the role of mediator conditional on Benes' retirement (Prague dispatches later denied Benes had resigned).

Earlier Mr. Chamberlain had made a reference interpreted in some quarters to indicate his belief the Great War settlement should have been revised before the present crisis arose.

"If Article xix of the League covenant providing for revision of treaties by agreement had been put into operation . . . the crisis might have been avoided."

He told of his first meeting with the Fuehrer at Berchtesgaden September 15.

GREAT SURPRISE

Hitler's new attitude at the Godesberg conference of September 22, the Prime Minister said, was a "profound shock."

"I bitterly reproached the Chancellor for his failure to respond in any way to the efforts I had made for peace," he said.

The Prime Minister's declaration was made to Parliament while thousands massed outside the historic building, waiting, intense, to know whether Europe was to be plunged into a new war.

Mr. Chamberlain and members of the Royal family were cheered as they arrived, but otherwise the crowd was grimly silent.

A detailed report of Mr. Chamberlain's review of the negotiations with Hitler will be found on Page 2

German Ships Recalled

BERLIN (AP)—Both the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg American Steamship lines today announced that all sailings of their ships had been cancelled. The liner Europa, which was due at Southampton today, was recalled and, according to North German Lloyd authorities, "is now en route home."

FROM NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—The Hamburg-American liner Hansa, scheduled to sail at midnight tonight, cast off suddenly at 9 a.m. (6 a.m., P.S.T.) today and steamed toward Germany.

At the line's offices it was said the Hansa had sailed 15 hours ahead of schedule in response to orders cabled from Hamburg.

The St. Louis, another Hamburg-American liner which arrived in New York with passengers and cargo, was ordered to discharge the cargo, refuel and sail today without passengers.

United States lines moved to meet an emergency like the exodus from abroad in 1914's Great War days.

France Calls Out More Troops

French Forces Under Arms Are Increased Over 2,000,000 Mark

PARIS (AP) — Premier Daladier as he announced today he would participate in the four-power Munich conference designed to save the general peace of Europe, simultaneously called more troops to support the French stand against German invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The exact number of reserves called up today was not made known officially. An earlier call of two echelons, or stages, of reserve manpower had placed 380,000 additional men under arms, boosting the forces on French soil to more than 2,000,000.

The first echelon had already been called up by classes when France launched on "progressive mobilization" last Saturday with calls to echelons No. 2 and 3.

Today's mobilization order was directed to echelon No. 8.

France to Guard Vital Interests

Premier Daladier Pledges to Work for Peace at Munich

PARIS (AP) — Premier Edouard Daladier told his countrymen tonight he would continue at Munich tomorrow his efforts to save peace and safeguard the vital interests of France "with the backing of the whole nation."

In his broadcast, lasting only two minutes, the Premier said: "Early this afternoon I received an invitation from the German government to meet in Munich tomorrow morning with Chancellor Hitler, M. Mussolini and M. Neville Chamberlain.

"I have accepted this invitation.

"You will understand that on the eve of such an important negotiation it is my duty to postpone the explanation which it was my intention to give you.

THANKS CITIZENS

"But before my departure I wish to address the people of France my thanks for their attitude, replete with courage and dignity.

"I particularly wish to thank those French citizens who have been recalled to the colors for the coolness and determination of which they have given fresh proof.

"I have not for a moment ceased to work to preserve peace and the vital interests of France.

"I shall continue my efforts tomorrow with the full realization that I have the backing of the whole nation."

Kaiser Won't Talk On Current Crisis

DOORN, The Netherlands (AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, who once led his German legions into battle, declined today to discuss anything which occurred since 62 B.C.

He is following quietly his ordinary daily routine in exile, but this week he got in a visit to an exhibition of "treasures of antiquity" in the Municipal Museum in Amsterdam.

He showed special interest in Egyptian relics.

Questioned on the international crisis, he replied with a refusal to discuss "anything less than 2,000 years old."

Unfounded Reports Benes Quit Post

PARIS (AP)—A Prague dispatch to Havas, the French news agency, today said authoritative Czechoslovak sources denied reports President Eduard Benes had resigned.

(In Paris and Rome it was reported the Czechoslovak President had resigned and that his retirement was one of Premier Mussolini's conditions for mediation in the German - Czech crisis.)

Hitler Would Risk War

Chamberlain Tells British Commons His Trips to Germany Prevented Invasion of Czechoslovakia, For Which Everything Was Ready

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, opening his historic declaration to Parliament today, said "we are faced with a situation which has no parallel."

"I cannot help reflecting," asserted the Prime Minister, "that if Article XIX of the League covenant, providing for revision of treaties by agreement, had been put into operation instead of waiting until passions became so exasperated, the crisis might have been avoided."

"There were three alternative courses open (he said of last July when the deadlock arose in negotiations between the Czech government and the Sudeten Germans.)

"Either we could have threatened to go to war with Germany if they attacked Czechoslovakia; we could have stood aside and allowed matters to take their course; or finally we could attempt to find a settlement by way of mediation."

NO FAULT FOUND

"We have found it our duty to do anything in our power to help the contending parties to an agreement."

He explained that mediation was decided on, and Viscount Runciman was sent to Czechoslovakia.

"That Lord Runciman did not succeed was no fault of his," said Mr. Chamberlain.

While negotiations were proceeding under Lord Runciman in Prague, Mr. Chamberlain said, "the developments in Germany had been causing considerable anxiety to the British government."

"Early in August," said the Prime Minister, "the government received notice of measures of military movements in Germany on an extensive scale.

Mr. Chamberlain said the abnormal measures included "calling up of reservists, service of second-year recruits, conscription of labor for the western frontier fortifications, and powers for conscripting civilian services."

"The government," he said, "had also in mind the close approach of the Nazi congress at Nuremberg.

AMBASSADOR'S MOVES

"His Majesty's ambassador in Berlin was instructed in the middle of August to point out to the German government that these abnormal measures could not fail to be interpreted abroad as a threat towards Czechoslovakia; and must therefore increase the tension throughout Europe and might compel the Czech government to take precautionary measures on their side."

"The British ambassador added that this might also destroy the prospect of Anglo-German conversations.

"Herr von Ribbentrop (German Foreign Minister) replied in a letter refusing to discuss the military measures and expressing the opinion that British efforts in Prague could only serve to increase Czech intransigeance.

"Towards the end of August," said Mr. Chamberlain, "the French government, in consequence of information which reached them about the movement of several German divisions towards their frontier, took certain precautionary measures themselves, including the calling up of reserves to man the Maginot Line.

BRITISH WARNING

The Prime Minister then went on to describe other events leading up to the present crisis: How on August 31, Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador at Berlin, had personally warned the German government against military action in Czechoslovakia; how on September 3, the British minister in Prague told President Benes it was vital that Czechoslovakia offer concessions to Germany; how Ambassador Henderson went to Nuremberg to impress upon leading German statesmen the attitude of the British government.

After that call, said Mr. Chamberlain, "the general effect of Hitler's speech at Nuremberg was to leave the situation unchanged, with a slight diminution of tension."

The British diplomats and Germany and Czechoslovakia, he said, continued their efforts to bring about a peaceful solution of the problem.

"The French government," said Mr. Chamberlain, "had been particularly insistent that Britain's views should be made clear to Hitler himself.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

"On September 9, the British cabinet decided to take certain precautionary naval measures. These included commissioning of minelayers and sweepers.

"Hitler, on September 12, for the first time promised support of the Reich to Sudeten Germans if they could not obtain satisfaction, and for the first time raised the issue of self-determination."

Speaking of his conversation with Hitler at Berchtesgaden after his flight there, the Prime Minister said Hitler "made it plain Sudeten Germans must have the right of self-determination."

Mr. Chamberlain described Hitler's position as:

"If they could not achieve this by their own efforts he (Hitler) would assist them to do so. Rather than wait, he would be prepared to risk a world war."

"So strongly did I get the impression that the German chancellor was contemplating an immediate invasion of Czechoslovakia that I asked him why he had allowed me to travel all that way as I was evidently wasting my time."

Mr. Chamberlain said he decided to return from Berchtesgaden to consult his colleagues and Hitler promised he would refrain from hostilities until a reply was received, providing nothing happened "to force his hand."

VISIT PREVENTED INVASION

"Looking back," the Prime Minister asserted, "I have no doubt that my visit alone prevented an invasion for which everything was ready."

The House, tense until then, cheered.

Mr. Chamberlain said Hitler, in answer to the question of why he allowed him to make the trip, said, "If I could give him (Hitler) there and then the assurance that the British government accepted the principle of self-determination, he was quite ready to discuss ways and means of carrying it out.

"But if, on the contrary, I thought such a principle could not be considered by the British government, then he agreed it was of no use to continue our conversation.

"I, of course, was in no position to give there and then such an assurance, but I undertook to return at once to consult my colleagues if he would refrain from active hostilities until I had time to obtain their reply.

"That assurance he gave me, provided, he said, nothing happened in Czechoslovakia of such a nature as to force his hand, and that assurance has remained binding ever since.

"It was clear to me that, with German troops in the position they then occupied, nothing that anybody could do would prevent that invasion unless the right of self-determination was granted to Sudeten Germans, and that was the sole hope of a peaceful solution."

CABINET AGREED

Then Mr. Chamberlain outlined how the British cabinet had agreed to the principle of self-determination for Czechoslovakia, deciding that the great powers of Europe should guarantee the continued independence of the remainder of Czechoslovakia in the manner that Switzerland is maintained intact.

France, he told the Commons, agreed to this solution and the government at Prague was informed of this agreement.

The House cheered again when Mr. Chamberlain said his warm welcome on his return to Germany September 22 "demonstrated to me the desire of the German people for peace."

"I thought," Mr. Chamberlain continued, "I had only to discuss with the Chancellor the proposals already submitted.

"It was a profound shock to me when Hitler said he could not accept new proposals because they were too dilatory and offered too many opportunities for further evasion. Hitler insisted on a speedy solution."

Describing his farewell talk in private with Chancellor Hitler, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"He said again very earnestly that he wanted to be friends with England, and that if only this Sudeten question could be got out of the way in peace he would gladly resume the conversations. . .

"I bitterly reproached the Chancellor for his failure to respond in any way to efforts which I had made to secure peace."

Then, just as he had ended an hour and a half of speaking, the Prime Minister was handed a pencilled note by Sir John Simon.

He read it, lifted his eyes from the paper, and announced he was invited "to meet with Hitler, Daladier and Mussolini in Munich tomorrow."

The Prime Minister said: "I need not say what my answer will be. I will go to see what I can do as a last effort."

With this the Prime Minister ended his speech at 4.20 p.m. (7.20 a.m., P.S.T.).

France Started Conference Plan

Leftist Deputy Submitted Proposal for Four-power Meeting

PARIS (AP)—Announcement of the Munich conference today capped a day of intense diplomatic activity in virtually every European capital.

So far as the swift-moving drama could be reconstructed from diplomatic sources, it all began with a plan submitted to Premier Daladier by Ludovic Frossard, a leftist member of the Chamber of Deputies, who quit the Daladier cabinet in a labor dispute a few weeks ago. He had been minister of public works.

Frossard's plan was submitted to Hitler by French Ambassador Andre Francois Poncet. It also was communicated to Mr. Chamberlain in London. The Prime Minister ordered Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, to back it up and sent Lord Perth, ambassador to Italy, to ask Mussolini as a "great friend" of Hitler to intervene in favor of conference proposal.

LEGION GUARDS

The Frossard plan, believed to have been modified only in minor details, follows:

1. Leaders of the four nations to meet.

2. The German army to be given symbolic occupation of Sudetenland by being permitted to march into Cantons (districts) the Germanic character of which is uncontested—this to be done on or before Saturday to satisfy Hitler's demands.

3. Members of the British Legion of World War Veterans, who already have offered their services, to form a guard between Czechoslovakia proper and the German occupied region, and a plebiscite or agreements between Berlin and Prague governments to decide disposition of the other disputed areas.

Chamberlain's Note to Il Duce

ROME (AP)—The text of Prime Minister Chamberlain's message today to Premier Mussolini, which preceded the decision to hold the Munich conference, follows:

"I have directed today a final appeal to Herr Hitler to refrain from use of force to settle the Sudeten problem which we are certain could be settled by means of brief discussion and would give him essential territory and populations and protection both of Sudetens and Czechs during the transfer.

"I offered to go myself at once to Berlin to discuss arrangements with Grman and Czech representatives and, if the Chancellor desired it, representatives of Italy and France as well.

"I trust Your Excellency will be so good as to inform the German Chancellor that you are disposed to be represented there and urge him that he accept my proposal. This will keep our peoples out of war.

"I have already guaranteed that Czech promises will be fulfilled and I trust that complete agreement may be reached within the next week."

AMBASSADORS SEE FEUHRER IN BERLIN

BERLIN (CP-Havas) — Chancellor Hitler today received the French and British ambassadors and talked with each for an hour as rumors flew of the new proposal for preservation of peace in Europe.

A Havas dispatch from London said new British proposals submitted today were reported there as follows:

1. Occupation by German troops October 1 of part of the Sudeten regions of Czechoslovakia, notably the Asch-Carlsbad-Eger triangle.

2. This occupation, which would be "symbolic," would be followed by withdrawal of German and Czeshoslovak troops from the Sudeten areas. A plebiscite would then be held in the Sudeten regions, during which the British Legion would police the zones affected.

Mobilizing Report Denied By Berlin

LONDON — A Reuter's dispatch from Berlin states that the German News Agency has issued the following statement:

"News was published in London yesterday (Tuesday) evening that Germany intended to proclaim general mobilization at that hour. In well-informed German circles it is declared that this news is false."

U.S. Message to Duce

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House attaches announced today that President Roosevelt had sent a personal message yesterday to Premier Mussolini "in the interests of preserving world peace."

Stephen Early, presidetial secretary, said that because the communication was personal, it would not be made public textually.

He added, however, the note dealt with preserving world peace.

Attaches hailed as "very encouraging" the invitation by Chancellor Hitler of representatives of Britain, France and Italy to a conference in Munich tomorrow.

Mr. Early told this to newsmen, advising them simultaneously President Roosevelt's cable to the German Chancellor last night probably would be the chief executive's final word in the European crisis.

Roosevelt's Appeal

U.S. President Tells Hitler History Would Hold Statesmen Accountable For Mutilation and Death of Millions If They Should Permit War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt appealed anew to Chancellor Hitler last night to avoid plunging Europe into the holocaust of war.

Unlike his earlier plea for peace which went to Czechoslovakia, Great Britain and France, as well as Germany, the President directed his message only to Hitler, thereby indicating he believed the Chancellor would be responsible if negotiations to avert war should break down now.

"Present negotiations still stand open," he said. "They can be continued if you will give the word."

The President suggested, too, possible convoking of a general conference in some neutral spot in Europe where all nations "directly interested in the present controversy" could meet and settle their troubles pacifically.

He made it clear at the same time, however, the United States would neither sponsor nor attend such a meeting, and that it was for Europe to work out its own solution unaided.

The decision to send the second peace appeal was reached at a cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon. Shortly before, Mr. Roosevelt and his cabinet had listened to Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech from London.

POSSIBLE DISASTER

Acknowledging the receipt of Hitler's reply to his first peace message, the President said he had been confident that Hitler would agree with him that an "incalculable disaster" would result from an outbreak of hostilities.

"The question before the world today, Mr. Chancellor, is not the question of error of judgment or of injustices committed in the past," he said. "It is the question of the fate of the world today and tomorrow. The world asks of us who at this moment are heads of nations the supreme capacity to achieve the destinies of nations without forcing upon them, as a price, the mutilation and death of millions of citizens.

LAST WAR FUTILE

"Resort to force in the Great War failed to bring tranquillity. Victory and defeat were alike sterile. That lesson the world should have learned."

Reviewing his first peace appeal in a single paragraph: That the German-Czech row should be settled by negotiations and that the "threatened alternative of the use of force . . . is as unnecessary as it is unjustifiable," Mr. Roosevelt continued:

"My conviction on these two points deepened because responsible statesmen have officially stated that an agreement in principle has already been reached between the government of the Greman Reich and the Government of Czechoslovakia, although the precise time, method and detail of carrying out that agreement remain at issue."

"Whatever existing differences may be, and whatever their merits may be—and upon them I do not and need not undertake to pass—my appeal was solely that negotiations be continued until a peaceful settlement is found, and that thereby a resort to force be avoided," Mr. Roosevelt added.

SUGGESTED CONFERENCE

After saying that Hitler held the power to keep negotiations open and suggesting an international conference, if necessary, the President went on to say:

"In my considered judgment, and in the light of the experience of this century, continued negotiations remain the only way by which the immediate problem can be disposed of upon any lasting basis.

"Should you agree to a solution in this peaceful manner I am convinced that hundreds of millions throughout the world would recognize your action as an outstanding service to humanity.

"Allow me to state my unqualified conviction that history, and the souls of every man, woman and child whose lives will be lost in the threatened war will hold us and all of us accountable should we omit any appeal for its prevention."

Declaring the United States recognized no obligation in connection with the negotiations, Mr. Roosevelt said in conclusion:

"Yet in our own right we recognize our responsibilities as a part of a world of neighbors.

"The conscience and the impelling desire of the people of my country demand that the voice of their government be raised again and yet again to avert and avoid war."

Ottawa Informed Of Europe Events

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister King was ready today to summon his colleagues for a cabinet meeting on the shortest notice if news from Europe should require immediate consideration of the government.

With no call issued by early afternoon, it was assumed the advices reaching the government were that such a meeting today might not be necessary.

All ministers were asked by the Prime Minister to remain within call in the event of an emergency.

Yesterday they sat nearly seven hours studying the European situation as it affects Canada and the Prime Minister afterward issued a statement declaring "the government is making preparations for any contingency" and that the government was ready for the immediate calling of Parliament "if the efforts which are still being made to preserve the peace of Europe should fail."

Chamberlain Takes Advisers to Talks

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Prime Minister Chamberlain will leave by air at 7.30 a.m. (10.30 tonight P.S.T.) Thursday for Munich to attend the four-power conference, it was announced tonight.

The following were selected to accompany the Prime Minister:

Sir Horace Wilson, his closest adviser and a leading figure in the Berchtesgaden and Godesberg conferences with Hitler; Sir William Malkin, legal adviser to the Foreign Office; Frank Ashton-Gwatkin, who was a member of the Runciman mediation mission in Czechoslovakia; William Strang of the Foreign Office; Lord Dunglass, Mr. Chamberlain's parliamentary private secretary, and C. G. Syers, one of Mr. Chamberlain's private secretaries.

Czechs Ready But Praying for Peace

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia rushed final preparations for war and prayed for peace today as the heads of four nations planned a conference at Munich.

Announcement of the four-power conference resulted in cancellation of a radio speech scheduled to have been made tonight by Premier Jan Syrovy.

No Air Force Rush Follows War News

TORONTO — Ottawa dispatch to the Toronto Star quotes national defence headquarters as saying "war scare" has not affected enlistments in the air force in any part of Canada.

There is already a waiting list of approximately 4,000, and no recruiting measures have been adopted. Applications continue to be received, but the permanent force of the R.C.A.F. is practically at full strength of 247 officers and 1,823 other ranks.

A force of 2,070, all ranks, was provided for by this year's estimates, and unless war comes the number will not be materially exceeded.

Last Rites for Maj.-Gen. Stewart

Lieut.-Governor and Officials Attend Funeral in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of the Dominion and provincial governments, of the army and navy and hundreds of citizens he knew during his varied and successful career, joined this afternoon in a last tribute to Major-Gen. J. W. Stewart, who died Saturday.

Lieutenant-Governor Hamber was one of the principal mourners at the military funeral service for a man who came to Canada from Scotland as a boy with only a few cents in his pocket, but later became one of the Dominion's greatest railway builders, and was made a major-general during the Great War.

For almost two hours before the funeral service began, the body lay in state in St. John's United Church. Interment was made at the Abbey in Ocean View Burial Park.

Officers and men of the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, which Gen. Stewart outfitted at the outbreak of the Great War and of which he was an honorary colonel, played a prominent part in the funeral. The coffin was borne to the grave on a gun carriage, hauled by a naval detachment from Esquimalt.

Among the principal mourners besides the Lieutenant-Governor were Brigadier J. C. Stewart, D.S.O., officer commanding Military District No. 11 at Work Point; officers of the Seaforth Highlanders and other Vancouver units; government representatives and Major-Gen. Edward Hillam and Capt. W. A. Grimstall, representing British military forces. Representatives of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society and the Northern Construction Co. Ltd., of which Gen. Stewart was president, also marched in the cortege.

The services were performed by Major the Rev. George Pringle, Lieut.-Col. the Rev. C. C. Owen and Rev. James Macintosh.

MANION ASSURES CONSERVATIVE AID

Will Not Play Politics In International Crisis, He Says

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. Dr. Robert J. Manion, National Conservative leader, today issued a statement assuring Prime Minister King "that whatever steps he and the government take in support of Mr. Chamberlain and the Empire will have the full co-operation of the National Conservative Party and its leaders."

The statement made note of Mr. King's statement last night that the Canadian Government "is in complete accord with the statement Prime Minister Chamberlain made to the world today."

Dr. Manion said in part:

"During the terribly critical situation in Europe there have been those who felt that my attitude towards that situation, as leader of the National Conservative Party in Canada, should be made known.

"At such a time as this the duty of the government, in a country such as ours, is very difficult and very serious, and I have no intention, for the sake of gaining any petty political advantage, of adding to its difficulties. . . .

"That is my conception of my duty at the moment—particularly in view of the fact that I have not been called in to consultation by the Canadian Government, and therefore am dependent upon the newspapers and the radio for my information."

DENVER, Col. (AP) — The crushed body of a railway track walker, bearing a card identifying him as Robert H. Miner, was found today beneath wreckage of a passenger train and freight train which collided head-on at the outskirts of Denver, injuring 14 persons.

Acetylene torches were used to free three women passengers pinned beneath their coach seats in the Denver and Rio Grande Western's Panoramin Limited when the fast passenger train, starting for Salt Lake City via the six-mile Moffat tunnel under the Rockies, rammed into a 43-car freight train of the Denver and Salt Lake Line late yesterday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Four By-elections Set for Nov. 14

London and Waterloo, Ont., Brandon, Cartier to Choose M.P.'s

OTTAWA (CP)—Four federal by-elections will be held November 14.

Announcing the date last night, Prime Minister King said he and his colleagues had indicated several days ago to the Liberals of London, Ont., that the government would like to see Conservative Leader R. J. Manion unopposed if he is nominated in that constituency.

The other seats to be filled are: Brandon, Man.; Waterloo South, Ont., and Montreal-Cartier, all caused by deaths of the sitting members. All but Montreal-Cartier were Conservative.

"The government wants to see Dr. Manion in the House when Parliament meets," Mr. King said. "We feel the leader of the opposition should have a seat in Parliament. I am not sure when Parliament will meet." The Prime Minister observed, however, that in the ordinary course it would be early in the new year.

Dr. Manion, who was Minister of Railways and Canals in the Bennett administration and met personal defeat at the polls in 1935, was chosen leader of the National Conservative Party at the convention here in July. He has no seat in Parliament.

Advised at his home of Mr. King's expression of a desire for his unopposed election in London, Dr. Manion expressed "warm appreciation of the Prime Minister's courtesy."

It is generally believed Dr. Manion will run in either London or Waterloo South, but the announcement will have to come from the Conservative electors of the riding which chooses him as a candidate. It is believed this will be made known within a few days.

Shark Hatched In Aquarium

SYDNEY, Australia—The first shark believed to be incubated in captivity was hatched at the Torongo Park Aquarium here.

Five months ago an egg was found on a harbor foreshore and recognized as that of the crested Port Jackson shark. It was placed in a tank of water, which was kept at regulated temperature.

Months passed and nothing happened. It was thought that the egg was not fertile. Then a change in its formation was noticed. It was placed in a shallow dish, and shortly afterwards the egg hatched and a four-inch shark was vigorously swimming about the dish.

Employment in Canada Better

OTTAWA (CP)—Employment at September 1 showed a decidedly upward movement, the expansion exceeding that indicated at September 1 in any previous year of record, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday.

All provinces except New Brunswick shared in the improvement, but the recovery in manufacturing in Ontario and that of a more general character in the prairie provinces were especially important factors in the situation, the bureau said.

Eire Government Prepares Defences

DUBLIN (CP-Havas) — Eire prepared today for the eventuality of war by speeding precautionary measures.

Lists of all food produces, oils and other raw materials were made ready, while an inventory of warehouses and silos also was being taken.

Among military precautions was the immediate installation on Spike Island, Cork harbor, of heavy artillery and anti-aircraft batteries.

Endless Line Still Before Lenin's Tomb

By PETER STURSBERG
IN RUSSIA

THE LONG queue doubles back and forth over the hot cobblestones of shadeless Red Square. For three hours a day, from 4 to 7 in the afternoon, Lenin's tomb is open, and for those three hours every day, there is that vast crowd moving slowly along, doubling back and forth across Red Square.

When you go to see Lenin, as everybody does, you will not have to join the endless line, for the Red guard will admit you immediately you show your Intourist form. A class distinction? Merely a courtesy, for the Russian, rich or poor, Stakhonovite, Udarnik or black worker, has to take his place in the queue.

When you go to see Lenin you cannot fail to be impressed by the homage paid the untidy little man with the scraggly red beard and the great head. The glorious simplicity of his red-and-black marble mausoleum with only one word above the entrance in foot-high letters, LENIN, the number of Red soldiers, and the masses moving slowly along, doubling back and forth across Red Square.

There are children in sun suits among the crowd, for you can wear what you like as long as you do not carry anything into the tomb.

At the entrance the men take off their hats and brush back their hair with their hands, and the women straighten their frocks. Through a simple grey and black marble hall and down a lighted stairway they go into the subterranean chamber where Lenin lies.

"Keep moving, tovarich. Keep moving, tovarich." In the underground coldness a hush falls over the crowd and there is only the sound of shoes on the marble floor as, two by two, the people go up and around the end and down the other side of the glass coffin.

There is no light in the room except in the glass coffin, and this light has a strange effect on the Red guard standing at attention at the head of the coffin. It casts deep shadows on his face, giving him a statuesque appearance. Another soldier stands at attention at the other end, looking always into Lenin's face.

Lenin looks waxy though not waxen, for there are definite signs that he is shrinking. The flesh around his fingers seems to have contracted most. One lady who had seen Lenin many times told me she thought he looked much more mummified than two years ago.

New Hope

ALTHOUGH THIS DAY DAWNED WITH brighter prospects that the peace of Europe, and the world's equilibrium generally, would be preserved, the danger of war still remains. It is comforting to know, however, that the Prime Ministers of Great Britain and France and the heads of the totalitarian states of Germany and Italy have agreed to face one another round a conference table in the ancient Bavarian city of Munich tomorrow. This meeting will afford them an opportunity of dealing frankly with a set of realities which differ considerably from the circumstances which prevailed at the conclusion of Mr. Chamberlain's visit to Reichsfuehrer Hitler at Godesberg. Much has happened in the meantime.

The head of the Nazi state began the week with a speech of defiance from Berlin. Before its reverberations had subsided the world learned that the might of Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia would be found alongside Czechoslovakia if German soldiery invaded the territory of that war-born republic. Since then there have been a dignified accounting by Prime Minister Chamberlain—in terms as simple and as earnest as they could be phrased—and two appeals from the President of the United States. The complete frankness of the British Premier's explanation of his official action, the audible evidence of an anguish of mind which his message through the ether revealed, must have deeply impressed all those who heard it. It was none the less notable that Mr. Roosevelt covered his observations with the thinnest possible veneer of constitutional usage when he said this: "The question before the world today, Mr. Chancellor, is not the question of errors of judgment or of injuries committed in the past. It is the question of the fate of the world today and tomorrow."

The fate of the world today and tomorrow! We may take it for granted that this thought will be uppermost in the mind of Mr. Chamberlain, in the minds of the peoples of the British Empire and of the world in general, as long as the issue of peace or war shall remain in doubt. The head of the great German Reich—not omitting the other noisy gentleman who presides over the "Blackshirt Government" of Italy—surely is beginning to realize by this time that even what remains of our much-vaunted civilization has recovered sufficient of its former backbone to refuse to be cowed by the doctrine of brute force and moral perversity of the most despicable kind. Law and order, honesty and decency, are being tested. Upon what emerges from the crucible depends the fate of the world to which President Roosevelt already has referred so pointedly.

If tomorrow's meeting at Munich shall produce a genuine undertaking to settle this business of the moment, therefore, without resorting to the arbitrament of the bomber and the howitzer, a good distance will have been traveled along the path toward a revival of international sanity, fair dealing, and mutual trust. But such a temporary soporific will have to be followed rapidly by an effective and lasting antidote for everything that at present is fraying the nerves of men and women the world over. Never let it be said, by the way, that conferences, abortive as many of them have been, or treaties, more honored in their breach than in their performance, are no longer of any use. But this time there must be an international gathering to which no nation unwilling to pledge its good faith without peradventure shall be admitted. It must meet with a dominant resolve that the armament race shall at once cease, that rapidly-progressive material and moral disarmament shall take place, that business relations between nation and nation shall henceforth be conducted with a general recognition of well-defined and inexorable economic laws—commercial conduct which shall make no further contribution to international trickery and international suspicion. For these are the handmaidens dear to the "merchants of death."

If all this shall come out of the tragic developments of recent months, if all the money—which ought to have been spent on the improvement of the lot of the peoples of the world—that has been spent on armaments has been spent on equipment that can now be discarded as useless, the price paid to date can be considered cheap. International ledgers then can be opened anew with a substantial credit balance, something to give peace to those of us living, and an assurance to those who are to come after. These are some of the hopes of the Munich meeting tomorrow.

Untimely Arguments

WHEN HE SPOKE IN VICTORIA ON Monday, Colonel E. A. Baker, national president of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, declared it was about time Canadians realized "they have been pensioners of the United States and Great Britain long enough" in connection with defence. Said he: "If we spent money on arms proportionately with the taxpayers of those two countries, instead of voting a mere $35,000,000 yearly, we would be spending $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 for defence."

The gallant Colonel was speaking to the Victoria branch of the Amputations' Association of the Great War, and he preceded his "instruction" as to what this country's taxpayers ought to do with the statement that Canada was once more faced with a crisis which "finds her unprepared to fight shoulder to shoulder with the other Dominions in the preservation of the British Empire."

As national president of the National Institute for the Blind, Colonel Baker is doubtless doing an excellent job, a job that requires to be done well. But he also would be rendering useful service if he were to avoid discussions at this juncture which are neither in accordance with elementary prudence nor representative of a majority of Canadian thought.

Incidentally, Canada was not ready for the Great War in 1914—she never could be ready in the sense that Colonel Baker implies—but the record shows that she rendered an account of herself for which she has no reason to apologize. And history would repeat itself if the occasion arose.

Difficult Ethiopia

IT WAS ONLY A COUPLE OF YEARS AGO the poverty-stricken, land-hungry people of Italy were persuaded they could get a break for themselves by aiding their government to take over the rich lands of Ethiopia. The proposal appealed to them. For their own is a country largely mountainous and rocky, crowded with 42,000,000 human beings. The average Italian works hard and has no large surplus of what we on this continent consider the necessities of life. Naturally, it was not difficult for him to be brought around to covet the fat farm lands and general riches to be had for the taking in Africa. So there was the war, and peace-loving persons in the rest of the world took what comfort they could in the reflection that when the shooting and the killing stopped, things at least might be a little better for the common people of Italy.

But now the suspicion grows that these Italians had been sold a gold brick. A dispatch from Rome reveals that the Italian government has given up its plans for the colonization of Ethiopia—for the time being at any rate. In the first place, the country is not fully pacified yet. It probably will not be until the natives have been secured in the possession of their own lands—and there happen to be about twice as many of these natives more than the Italian high command had estimated.

In addition, the riches of Ethiopia are not such as can be gathered quickly. General Attilio Teruzzi, under-secretary for Italian Africa, remarks it will be years before the country can be made ready for colonization. Accordingly, the colonization campaign is off, with the government now trying to induce its people to consider colonizing Libya instead. All of this leaves the ordinary Italian just where he was before he was imbued with visions of Ethiopian opportunity.

It is easy to be wise after the fact, of course. But it is well to point out that something like this is what a nation inevitably lets itself in for when it gives up trying to think and turns all its problems over to a military dictator to solve. The dictator is certain, sooner or later, to look for some "adventure" that will make people feel that their troubles are receiving attention, and the adventure is very likely to end the way this Ethiopian conquest is ending—in general disillusionment.

I-spy for Everybody

THE SIDEWALK TELEVISION INTERview made its debut in New York the other day, and everybody pronounced it a great success. Doubtless it was, and will be for audiences and the people who cherish dreams of being televised. But how about the shrinking violet and a few others?

When sidewalk telecasts get to be the ordinary thing, how about the poor woman who just slipped an old thing on and dashed downtown with her make-up incomplete, expecting to rush right back and see no one but the saleslady? Is not she going to be delighted to get telecast into the homes of all her friends and enemies? And how about the poor male who always looks like a camel when his picture is taken? And how about all those people unexpectedly telecast from places they are not supposed to be, with companions they are not supposed to know?

On second thought, perhaps television may prove a great force for good in this world. At least, good dress, good manners, and good, quick thinking.

Heaven is a place where the moon is full; the soft night air is perfumed by cape jasmine and honeysuckle; and a night bird sings in a tree top.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS

From New York Times

It is difficult to see what social function is served by investment trusts that are themselves chiefly speculative vehicles. Investment trusts justify their existence when they supply the small investor with an investment more diversified and more stable than he could secure by buying shares directly, while at the same time giving him the benefit of experienced and expert management in the selection of such shares. But the Securities and Exchange Commission, in its latest report on the subject, reveals what seems at first the astonishing fact that the buyer of investment trust shares, on the whole, did worse than if he had shut his eyes and picked a number of stocks at random from the list, not troubling to change any of them during an entire 8½-year period. "The value of the average dollar invested in July, 1929, in an index of these investment company common stock prices," reports the commission, "had dropped to not much over 15 cents by the end of 1937, while the dollar invested in the index representing the general market declined only to about 39 cents." There have, of course, been some well-managed and successful trusts of this type that have been exceptions to this general trend.

Loose Ends

AT THE AGE of 22, Neville Chamberlain, Britain's Prime Minister, was packed off by his famous father, Joseph Chamberlain, to Inagua, one of the larger Bahamas islands, to create "ordered plantations and construct a factory to turn sisal into hemp." Joseph Chamberlain had, in 1890, bought 20,000 acres in the Bahamas on the advice of Sir Ambrose Shea, governor of the islands, who was "full of a new discovery which was to revolutionize the conditions of the islands," and make millions for all concerned. It consisted of a plant, growing like a weed, which was the curse of the islands till Shea found that it would give a hemp equal to the best Manilla. At least, so he thought.

But it turned out to be only a pipe-dream, and Joseph Chamberlain lost £50,000 ($250,000) in the Bahamas.

"Had young Neville been of a nervous disposition," says J. L. Garvin (in his "Life of Joseph Chamberlain"), "when he saw the conditions on the spot, every separate hair on his head might well have stood on end. It was an impossible commission. At this day there are no millions from sisal in the Bahamas. Then, there were not even hundreds."

Two of Joseph Chamberlain's sons—the late Sir Austen and Neville—made names for themselves by "following in father's footsteps, following the dear old dad," as Vesta Tilley used to warble. Austen, the elder of the two, was in politics all his adult life. Neville, present Prime Minister, has stuck closer to his father's path, for it was only a few years ago that he gave up a business career to engage in politics. Joseph Chamberlain made his fortune out of an American invention—the screw—before turning to national politics. His second wife was Miss Endicott of Boston.

A GOOD STORY about Bismarck—the "Iron Chancellor"—is related by Lord Howard of Penrith (better known as Sir Esme Howard, former British Ambassador at Washington) in his fascinating memoirs, "Theatre of Life," covering the years 1863 to 1905. It seems that the famous German Chancellor "always used to converse with Sir Edward Malet (British Ambassador at Berlin) in English, and his English, though very fluent and perfectly clear, was sometimes rather quaint in its pronunciation."

"One day," reminisces Lord Howard—who was private secretary to Sir Edward Malet at the time—"Malet came back from one of these interviews much amused and told me that he had not, for a long time, been able to understand what Bismarck had meant, because the great man had kept on repeating to him: 'Why can't we let bigg'uns be bigg'uns?'"

"This completely puzzled Malet, and he did not know what to say. It was only after two or three minutes that he discovered that the Chancellor's meaning was 'bygones be bygones'."

This story about Austin Dobson, the poet, is told by William Dana Orcutt (in "Celebrities Off Parade"): Some years ago, Mr. Orcutt was having tea with Mr. and Mrs. Dobson at their London home when the poet remarked innocently:

"I have always wanted to write a novel. Prose is a much more satisfying medium of expression than poetry. But Mrs. Dobson would never let me. . ."

"I could see the figure at the tea table stiffen," says Mr. Orcutt, a novelist himself.

"I should say not," Mrs. Dobson exclaimed with much emphasis. "There's enough fiction in our daily lives without adding to it. My husband would have lost what little reputation he has if he had stooped to that."

"After a moment's abrupt pause in the conversation, we continued on safer ground," adds Mr. Orcutt.

LORD DUNSANY—whose tales, plays and poems, have brought him fame—tells a delightful story (in his autobiography, "Patches of Sunlight") about Lady Middleton, whose niece, Lady Beatrice Villiers, he married. Lady Middleton was a "very stately person, with an appreciation of a good joke and a twinkle of humor that was always ready to welcome it." Lord Dunsany tells it:

"One of her footmen had gone to the war and got a commission and had been awarded the Military Cross, and was going to Buckingham Palace to receive it from the King.

"He went to Lady Middleton and told her that he was allowed to bring one other person with him, but that he had no relatives and no one that he could ask, and might he ask if she would care to come? Aunt Elisa was delighted, and away they went to Buckingham Palace. In one of the doorways an official took the card, and asked, "What relation is this lady to you?"

"'Oh, good gracious. She is no relation,' said the ex-footman.

"'Then what exactly is the connection?' asked the official.

"'She is my mistress,' was the answer.

"'Oh, we can't have any of that sort of thing here,' said the official.

"How well I can picture that scene," adds Lord Dunsany; "explanations, embarrassments and apologies, and all these things swept away upon gusts of Aunt Elisa's laughter."

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN

(A Humble Tribute)

He made the journey, hope his guiding star,
To keep dread war from present peace to mar;
That lives of thousands might be saved
And future roads with peace be paved,
The noble effort that he made,
The March of Time will never fade.
He may have failed, who knows? and yet,
We must trust on, our God will not forget.
Let prayers ascend unto the Prince of Peace,
That from this outrage we will find release.

Modern War Holds No New Horror For Womankind

By RUTH MILLETT

IF WAR COMES—we women are told constantly—we will get a worse taste of it than we have ever had before. With chivalry in warfare something to be found only in history books, we can't expect our sex to save us from bombs and poison gas, from suffering and death. Even at home we won't be safe, and neither will our children be.

But would a war now be more horrible for woman than war has ever been? Men have always been the ones to face the danger and yet they are always more ready to follow a drum than women are to have them go.

If the physical danger of war were its greatest hardship men wouldn't be so ready to fall into line as they have always been.

They wouldn't be so easily aroused by war talk and the sound of marching music. And once they had fought through one war, they wouldn't be as ready to fight another as many of them are.

No. Women have always known another hard side of war; the uncertainty of waiting day after day and month after month—waiting at home alone, helpless. Waiting for "news"—when any day "news" might mean that a lover, a husband, or a son is dead or wounded.

Women are generally credited with being able to stand physical pain with greater fortitude than men. It is loneliness, and fear, and personal loss that they find hard to bear.

So women of any war have faced the worst thing that they ever have to face. And modern methods of warfare and modern disregard for women's physical safety won't make the nightmare much more terrible—for women.

It will, though, for men. For modern warfare will teach men what women have known for generations—the agony of wondering whether or not a loved one is dead or alive—whole, or broken and suffering.

WATER REVENUE

To the Editor:—I noticed an item dealing with the water revenue, in which it said that the total revenue from the Goldstream and Sooke Lake systems for the first eight months of this year was $12,127 more than in the first eight months of 1937, and the August revenue alone was $7,656 more than August, 1937.

Why should citizens of Victoria have to pay more for water in the summer at all, even though they do use more than in the winter? It does not cost the city more to supply a large amount than it does a small amount. It is just there at Sooke Lake or Goldstream to be used, and is naturally replenished at the proper season if it gets low. The system and pipes are there anyway, and what is the difference if 1,000,000 or 10,000,000 gallons run through them daily in the summer? It costs the city no more.

It is an easy way to extract more money from the householders. Actually, what we use in the summer we do not use in the winter, and still have to pay for it.

The best way to deal with this water question, in my opinion, is to make a fixed rate all-year-round to the average user. I would say $1, or at most $1.25 a month all the year round would be plenty. We pay for too much for these necessities.

Parallel Thoughts

When ye have transgressed the covenant of the Lord your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them; then shall the anger of the Lord be kindled against you and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.—Joshua 23:16.

Democratic Detours

By ELMER S. KNIGHT

CURRENTLY, the air is ringing with thoughtless words, Democracy, Communism, Fascism . . . they fly from every lip but mean little more than that great numbers of people feel passionately about public and world affairs.

There is nothing new about all these 'isms, except, perhaps, some of the words and some of the forms of authority. Basically, it is the age-long battle between Liberty and Despotism. After the war, the people of Europe experienced a great social unrest—more pronounced than elsewhere by reason of racial temperaments, personalities and national economics. It was a crisis. People had lost their enthusiasm for democracy and there was one unavoidable issue that covered the entire world, the emergence of the working people demanding their full measure of social and economic security. Democracy seemed too passive to cope with the problem, the people wanted a more aggressive cause, so they took the dictators at their own evaluation as forces of law and order and authoritarian states were set up.

The authoritarian state is an economic order wherein the whole work of society is planned, the individual becomes subject to the state. He is told how he must live, his life is designed and directed toward a defined goal. He is simply an instrument of the state, acting in the capacity of agent for the demagogue and his advisers. Obviously, to maintain such authority over a people, who cannot be stopped thinking any more than they can be stopped breathing, it is necessary to resort to brutality. A strict censorship on what the outside world thinks, and frequent purges must take place whenever someone dares to think for himself (out loud).

Such violent revolutionary upheavals will never help to bring about a golden age for man. The progress of civilization has always been dependent on overcoming brutality, and man's natural psychology of life is Liberty, pure and undefiled—no subjugation to the state can be expected to improve his condition. Therefore, there is nothing visible in this controlled economy and its harsh obligations to recommend itself as a substitute for our present economic system wherein we regulate our own affairs, plan our own improvements and above all, enjoy Liberty.

The question has often been asked, what is Democracy? The answer is, every man in the world who is a Christian, is truly democratic. Since the foundation of Christian religion, democratic ideals have been based on Christian ideals. Christian ethics based on Hebrew family life stressed the importance of family ideals. So by and large, the word democracy implies a state of home-life and comfort, intelligence and refinement. A state wherein each individual may become his own proprietor having faith in reason, realism and legality.

Conversely, dictatorship implies destruction of family ties, regimentation to glorify the state and a tendency towards paganism-humanity cruel and unfeeling.

Destroy family ties and you destroy the bulwarks of a nation.

LOOK at it how we may, it is not what democracy seems to be at the moment that counts, it is what democracy is fundamentally and has been since time began. Democracy springs eternal in the hearts of the masses, sooner or later they will demand it for the very excellent reason that democracy is not an adjunct nor an acquirement of man; it is neither a creed nor a polity, it is rather a measure of progressional force implanted in man since the world began. It is something between all men, no less than something within them. It is a moving forward, rather than an end attained; a developing vitality rather than a fixed entity. It is the storehouse of accumulated results, a living working principle, the very essence of all the best distillations of good government the world over. We speak of democracy as something that moves on of its own accord; we may, if we will, recognize in this onward movement, the same principles of life manifest in nature.

BUSES OR STREET CARS?

To the Editor:—I read with much amusement from day to day letters on "Buses vs. Street Cars," especially the ones favoring the antiquated so-called street cars.

The persons favoring this type of transportation, badly in need of renewal, don't know what it is to get jolted along the pike, which is really in a deteriorated condition.

The cars make enough noise to awaken the dead. They are slow and falling to pieces, being as old as the hills.

It will be just too bad if the street cars get their time extended. Why favor street cars or their operators first in employment? (MRS.) ERIC FOSTER.

GENESIS OF THE TROUBLE

To the Editor:—The cause of the present world conditions lies in the German tariff as it was formulated 40 years ago.

This tariff was based on the assumption that it was possible for Germany to be economically independent and self sufficient.

Germany's natural resources were controlled by the Prussians, the conservative vested interests, being represented in the Reichstag by the Rightests and Centrum and Catholic parties.

Just before 1914 the Social Democrats achieved the majority in the Reichstag, or Parliament.

The army was controlled by the Prussians, and still is.

Any revolution that has taken place was always to get from under this domination.

On account of the fact that these conservative vested interests still dominate the financial set-up of the country, and that it is impossible for expansion to take place unless there was also an expansion of opportunity to exploit internal natural resources, Austria was absorbed.

Bohemia has other natural resources which are also necessary to these vested interests to form an economical whole.

It is illegal to listen to a foreign radio in Germany, so that the people do not know what is happening aboard or what is the foreign opinion at all.

Of course any delay in Hitler's plans makes the possibility of foreign opinion filtering into the country more certain.

The German tariff forced the U.S. tariff into existence and successively other tariffs in the world. Until at the present moment the tariffs have strangled trade throughout the world.

British Columbia is the logical and potential country to compete against German's stranglehold on chemical raw production. But this requires a great deal more fostering that has been done in the past 20 years, and will require that instead of those vested interests attempting to milk the home consumer, its attention be drawn to an export market at lower but still remunerative prices.

Street Cars or Buses?

This Space Will Be Used From Time to Time to Place Before You Certain Facts in Connection With the Proposed Abandonment of the Street Railway in Favor of a Motor Bus Service in This City

As this is something that will vitally affect practically every family in Victoria, all facts and circumstances with regard to this question should have your careful consideration.

FOR INSTANCE:

You must consider what the sudden closing down of this long-established home industry will mean to local merchants, supply houses, etc., who have benefited for many years through the street railway payrolls, orders for necessary supplies and by established street car routes.

That a large proportion of the 160 employees connected with the street railway will be suddenly deprived of a livelihood and eventually may become charges upon the community because of their ineligibility for employment in any other capacity than that in which the majority of them already have spent the best years of their life.

Remember, these are important facts. Others will be placed before you from time to time. Please give them your careful consideration.

Mrs. Herbert McGregor, Penticton, president of the B.C. Women's Institutes since 1936 and president of the Federated W.I. of Canada since 1937 who will attend the South Island district conference on October 6 and 7. She has served as representative of the province on the executive of the Federated W.I. since 1929, and is well known in the east for her unflagging efforts for the good of the women of this province. On her arrival as a bride in Penticton nearly 30 years ago, she found that a new organization called a Women's Institute was being organized to "Improve conditions of country life and make settlement permanent and prosperous." To the young doctor's wife this seemed an admirable ideal and she became a charter member of the Institute to which she still belongs.

Britannia W.A. Celebrates Birthday

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Britannia Branch Canadian Legion, entertained at a very successful birthday party and concert in the clubrooms, View Street, last night, in celebration of the sixth anniversary of the granting of its charter.

Mrs. E. Jones arranged the entertaining program and opened it with the solo, "My Old Kentucky Home," in the chorus of which everyone joined. Mrs. E. Ford sang the solos, "The Flight of Ages," "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen" and "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

Mesdames O. T. Aspray, R. Spouse, R. Dawes, D. Symonds, E. Drinkel, A. Jenkins and F. Ford formed the chorus in the striking tableau, in which the countries of the British Empire were represented by the children. As each country was represented, the national anthem of that country was sung by the Glee Club, also several folk songs. Evelyn Finn represented Britannia, Gwyneth Jones, New Zealand; Elaine Impey, Australia; Connie Henson, India; Alice Stevenson, South Africa; Pat Henson, England; Doreen Park (in kilts), Scotland; Helen Rees (in an Irish costume), Ireland; Verna Aspray (in a Welsh costume), Wales; Dorothy Finn (carrying a sheaf of wheat), Canada, and Betty May Van Alphen (dressed in a costume of blue and gold), represented the Canadian Legion; John Symonds (as a soldier), the Army, and Alfred Jenkins (in a sailor outfit), the Navy. As a finale, the chorus sang "Keep Right On to the End of the Road."

Mr. David Croston was the chairman for the evening and also led in the community singing. Mrs. E. Roberts ably assisted as accompanist.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

Mrs. A. E. Hall, president of the auxiliary, extended a welcome to the guests and to the present branch, and thanked the artists and those who had arranged the program. She also gave a brief account of the auxiliary's work and what it would mean in the future under prevailing conditions. Mr. Leslie Scott, president of the parent brach, in replying, told how the branch valued the strong support given by the auxiliary, and expressed birthday wishes from the executive and members of the parent branch.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. L. Quaintance and committee. The table was pretty with asters and dahlias. The three-tier ice cream birthday cake, decorated with the auxiliary's colors of blue and gold, the auxiliary emblem and six yellow candles, centred the table and was cut by the president, Mrs. Hall.

Mrs. Leslie Scott announced during the evening that A. M. Maxwell, Saanichton, had been awarded the tea wagon and silver service.

Fattest Girl Has Gone on Strike

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia (CP)—Saying she wished to go home and by a diet of vinegar and bran mashes get back her normal figure, Saveta Angelitch, starred in a traveling circus as Europe's fattest girl, went on strike and threatened to tear up her contract which nets her the equivalent of about $24.50 monthly with board and lodgings. Negotiations are pending.

"What have I done that I must be stared at and laughed at by thousands," the girl said. "I want what every woman should have—a home and a husband. Like this I shall get neither, and shall go through life as a freak."

Saveta tips the scales—if they are strong enough—at 504 pounds. Her mother, who travels with her, weighs but 98 pounds. Until the age of 16 the girl was also normal, when she suddenly began to put on weight. Ashamed of her mammoth proportions, she hid herself from neighbors until her brother brought her to the notice of circus people.

Now tired of being on show before thousands of gaping Jugoslav peasants and children, Saveta demands either a higher rate of remuneration or her liberty.

Club Bursary Is Presented to Local Girl

Marian Robinson of Esquimalt Wins $100 Award

Presentation of a Women's Canadian Club bursary of $100 was made at an interesting little ceremony at the Esquimalt High School this afternoon to Miss Marian Robinson, 791 Cave Street. Mrs. Harold Campbell, the club president, and Mrs. James Adam, first vice-president, made the presentation in the presence of the assembled school.

Miss Robinson secured 84.1 per cent in the junior matric examination given by the Department of Education last June and will continue her studies at Victoria College this fall.

Since only two boys from Greater Victoria, wrote the junior matriculation examination this year and each of these has been awarded a Royal Institution Scholarship, it has been decided to withhold the second bursary for the present, and award it to the boy who stands first in general proficiency at the end of the fall term at Victoria College.

Boys who have already won a bursary this year, and those attending college from outside Greater Victoria are not eligible for this prize.

HISTORY PRIZE

Last Friday, Mrs. W. C. Fyfe, convener of the Women's Canadian Club bursary committee, presented the club's annual Canadian history prize to Greorgina Worth at Margaret Jenkins School. The club inaugurated this annual prize as a memorial to the late Mrs. Margaret Jenkins, who was president of the club for many years.

The home economics prize of books to the value of $25 will be presented to the Central Junior High School on Friday.

To raise funds for its bursaries, the club will hold a bridge and mah jong tea at the Beach Hotel, Oak Bay, on Tuesday afternoon, October 18. Tables, which should be reserved as soon as possible to ensure accommodation, may be reserved with any member of the executive.

Lower Birthrate Empire Danger

EDINBURGH (CP)—Pointing out the danger of declining population, Sir Leonard Hill, prominent English physician and director of research, said the government should act at once and "on lines found successful in Germany, to stop the decay of the British Empire which is going on through birth control." Sir Leonard was speaking at the annual conference of the Sanitary Inspectors' Association, of which he is president.

Britain's birth rate, 35 per 1,000 in 1890, had fallen to 15 per 1,000, Sir Leonard said, and in all democratic countries of Europe the birth rate was under 15 per 1,000. Germany had raised her rate to 19, while Italy's rate was 22.

"The British race," he continued, "is on the down grade all over the world, and it is not due to crowding because in Australia and New Zealand the birth rate has fallen to under 17."

It had been estimated that by 1951 the number of children in England and Wales would have fallen from 9,500,000 in 1931 to 5,500,000, while people aged 45 and over would have increased by 2,500,000. This was because the British had been doing everything to secure comfort and prolong life and nothing to encourage the birth of children, on which the virility of a nation depended.

Poetry Source of Pleasure and Escape

Says Alan Crawley In Address to Canadian Club

Taking "a leaf here and a leaf there from my anthology," Alan Crawley of Winnipeg, literary critic and poet, yesterday afternoon entertained the Women's Canadian Club with a delightful causerie on "The Pleasure in Poetry."

After suggesting that poetry offered an escape in these distressing days, Mr. Crawley recited a number of beautiful verses from contemporary writers, including Walter de la Mare, Hudson, Rupert Brooke, W. B. Yeats, Siegfried Sassoon, Stephen Spender, Padraic Colum, Lionel Johnson, James Stephens.

From what he described as his "picture gallery" he took verses by such "artists" as Doris Ferne and Floris Clark McLaren of Victoria, Martin Armstrong, J. E. H. Macdonald, a Canadian, and gave an amusing poem, "Mrs. Reece Laughs," vividly descriptive of the subject.

Throughout the history of English literature contemporary writers have been subject to criticism on the ground of their modernity, said Mr. Crawley. The poet interprets his emotional reaction to the contemporary rhythms and scene, and in illustration he quoted "The Seal," by Richard Church, Stephen Spender's "The Expres" and Nevinson's "La Marche des Machines." He recited Ernest Walsh's "A Story Sending a Sick Man to Sleep" as an example of surrealist poetry.

Mr. Crawley spoke in high terms of Canadian writers, who should be encouraged in every way, and warmly praised the work of Audrey Alexandra Brown of Victoria.

Mrs. Harold Campbell presided and Miss Eugenie Perry moved the club's thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. T. H. Johns was the soloist, singing with charm, "When I Have Sung Thy Songs" (Charles), and "Minor and Major" (Spross), accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. C. Warn.

Capt. Carl J. Ketchum will address the club on October 11 on "Russia Since the Revolution," it was announced.

"Meal Ticket" Wife Is Scored By Judge

SEATTLE (AP) — Superior Judge William G. Long said Mrs. Thelma Humphreys Darmer, 23, of Vancouver, B.C., was in search of a "meal ticket" yesterday in denying her application for $250 monthly temporary support money from her husband of four months.

The husband, Robert Darmer, 49, Des Moines lumber broker, had filed for divorce, charging cruelty. She brought her action pending hearing of her cross-complaint for separate maintenance.

"It appears to me she is more interested in trying to get a meal ticket than she was in being a good wife," Judge Long said.

Testimony was she had lived with her husband only a short time.

This information on Phyllosan, the Splendid Re-energizing Agent, is Especially Important to Men and Women Past 40.
What is PHYLLOSAN doing to become so well-known? . . . Phyllosan (pronounced Fill-O-San) has helped thousands of men and women, especially those past forty, to regain and hold vital energy, steady nerves, buoyant stamina. Many persons who were suffering the miserable symptoms common to "past-forty" devitalization — debility, nervousness, weariness, irritability, morbid discouragement—have, through the simple use of Phyllosan tablets, helped restore themselves to physical and mental vitality and self-confidence. Many women are thus helping themselves happily over the usually upsetting "critical period". Phyllosan is helping many men and women in early and late middle-life to feel years younger, to take work and pleasure in full stride.
How was PHYLLOSAN discovered? . . . Phyllosan owes its discovery to the brilliant research work of a physician of outstanding reputation on two continents, Dr. E. Buergi, Professor of Medicine at the University of Berne, Switzerland. Dr Buergi, in developing Phyllosan, did not merely improve on an old medical principle. He sought for an entirely new vitalizing principle . . . and, after many years of scientific study, he succeeded in abstracting from purely natural sources a vitalizing substance that has a progressively beneficial effect on the human body This natural substance, the primary ingredient of Phyllosan, cooperates with the natural processes of your body to help enrich your blood, strengthen your nerves, rebuild your vital physical forces.
What do doctors say about PHYLLOSAN? . . . Here is how Dr. Buergi himself describes the benefits of Phyllosan: (Reprinted from a publication of the Pharmacological Institute of the University of Berne)—"The effects after taking Phyllosan are: a sensation of general well-being, disappearance of depression and of the feeling of insurmountable fatigue, improvement of the appetite. The subject, so to speak, experiences a new lease of life. Phyllosan activates all the vital and physical forces."
Here is what other physicians say: (From The Medical World, January, 1938)—"The long researches of Dr. Buergi are well-known to the medical profession . . . Phyllosan is being successfully prescribed by a very large number of physicians."
(From The Prescriber, January, 1938)—"Phyllosan has stood the test of time, and developments point to still greater usefulness for this product in the future."
What can PHYLLOSAN do for You? . . . What it has done and is doing for others. Are you physically and mentally depressed? . . . Do you feel burdened with a constant weariness that makes everything seem dull and drab? . . . Are you nervous and irritable—unable to concentrate — losing self-confidence — becoming anxious about your future? Then you can take no wiser step than to take advantage of Phyllosan's remarkable reconditioning and re-energizing potentialities.
Just two tiny tablets three times a day. Take them regularly, and the results will probably more than gratify you. Get fit to enjoy life—start taking PHYLLOSAN tablets today!

Junior Chamber Elects

Conway Parrott Named President and Thomas Sturgess Vice-president at Annual Meeting

Conway Parrott, one of the most energetic workers in Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce activities, was rewarded for his enterprise last night when he was elevated from the vice-president's chair to the presidency of the organization at the annual meeting held in the Hudson's Bay dining-room.

Thomas Sturgess, whose efforts went a long way toward ensuring the success of the midsummer celebrations through his fine management of the "Miss Victoria" contest was installed as vice-president, while Norman Foster will again attend to the secretarial duties of the chamber.

The five directors elected to serve a two-year term were Ed. Glover, Jack Hartree, Warren Martin, Tommy Sturgess and Thomas Watkins. The five executive members who still have one year of their term to serve are Leslie Osborne, Goldwyn Terry, Jack Barraclough, Conway Parrott and Ernest Harris.

PRESIDENT—Conway Parrott who was installed president of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce last night.

This meeting marked the culmination of the most active year in the history of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. Members of this organization undertook and achieved a large program of a varied nature, which established them in the eyes of the public and civic officials as a valuable asset to the community.

Duncan MacBride, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, gave the oath of office to the new president and vice-president, and after doing so, wished them a successful year, and extended to them the good wishes of the senior group.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Ernest Harris, retiring president, after thanking the executive and members for their fine support during the year, and congratulating the incoming officers, noted that the year had been the most successful since the junior group's inception. "It was a great privilege and a fine experience I received in being at the helm of the association," he said.

His annual report indicated that the chamber had been given a grand start at the beginning of last year by a fine foundation laid by the previous executive under the capable leadership of Tommy Watkins. This had enabled the chamber to continue to build up and forge ahead. "If you will give the new executive the same assistance as you have in the past, I predict that Victoria will, at the end of this coming year, recognize the Junior Chamber as its outstanding organization," the report continued.

The retiring president's report pointed out that in the earlier part of the year, the chamber successfully staged a home-lighting competition, a Yuletide party which attracted 2,500 children, "paint-up and clean-up" week, a floral window display competition in connection with spring garden week and engaged in other minor attractions.

The largest undertaking, however, had been the midsummer celebrations. This program had entailed many weeks of hard work on the part of the committeemen handling arrangements. But their efforts had not been in vain, as the celebration program arranged by the Chamber had been unanimously acclaimed as the most outstanding staged in the city in many years, the report continued.

Mr. Harris paid tribute to Thomas Sturgess for his ardent efforts in connection with the "Miss Victoria" contest, which had been staged primarily to raise funds for Junior Chamber's two parades during Navy Week. The contest had been successful as a financial venture.

ACHIEVE OBJECTIVE

Both parades received an enthusiastic turnout of the citizens of Greater Victoria, which indicated that the Junior Chamber of Commerce had achieved its objective—that of providing the citizens with worthwhile entertainment and at the same time spreading abroad a reputation of this city as one that was able to stage fitting celebrations in midsummer, says Mr. Harris' report in conclusion.

Norman Foster, secretary, in giving his annual report, noted that the membership had enjoyed a fine upward swing in the year just concluded. The roll call had advanced from 55 to 109. He pointed out that the year had been an extremely busy one, especially with the undertaking of the midsummer celebrations.

Leslie Osborne read the financial report, which showed the organization was on a sound financial basis.

Tribute to Mr. Harris was paid by President Parrott. He noted that it was largely through the capable generalship of Mr. Harris that the chamber progressed so well during the year. He urged the members to keep up the high standard and continue their efforts toward making Victoria progress and a better place to live in. The president thanked the board and members for the honor they had bestowed upon him.

Mr. Sturgess also spoke briefly, expressing his thanks and crediting the fine shape of the chamber to the retiring president, who was presented with an engraved gavel by Mr. MacBride during the evening.

During the evening, Miss Elaine Harte, soprano, contributed two songs. She was accompanied by Miss P. Cockell.

ISLAND SURVEY WORK DESCRIBED

F. C. Green, Surveyor-General, Historical Association Speaker

Operations of the surveyor-general's department, with particular emphasis on work which has been completed on Vancouver Island as a major aid to industry, were described by F. C. Green, surveyor-general, to the British Columbia Historical Association last night.

In a talk entitled: "Forty Years' Surveying in British Columbia," Mr. Green compared the work of today with that of early times when the possession of instruments was considered the stamp of efficiency of a surveyor as far as the government of the day was concerned.

Aerial photography which had been done on Vancouver Island with the co-operation of the Dominion Government was described, Mr. Green explaining his department now possessed over 100,000 aerial photos of the island. These photos were valuable in making topographical maps and in future years would save industry thousands of dollars.

Their use to industry came through the fact they showed right-of-way for roads and railways, and indicated accessibility to timber stands as well as being a means to determine possibilities of water power.

Dr. T. A. Rickard presided and thanked Mr. Green for his address.

Unity of B.C. P.-T.A.'s Is Aim

"Parent-Teacher Week" in Province From October 2 to 9

A drive to affiliate all parent-teacher associations of British Columbia schools with the Parent-Teacher Federation of B.C. will be made from October 2 to 9, which has been designated "Parent-Teacher Week" for the province.

Coincidental with the announcement of the province-wide campaign was the recent announcement of the new organization of P.-T.A.'s in Victoria, which will serve as a means of getting additional membership in the provincial organization.

Educational experts of the province, during recent years, have agreed more and more on the value of parent-teacher associations for the greater understanding and co-operation between the school and home which they promote.

On the occasion of this provincial campaign, Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, has addressed the following message to parent-teacher associations:

"Any organization such as a parent-teacher association that promotes co-operative functioning is a worthy one. The value of such associations depends upon the aims and attitudes underlying their activities. The parent-teacher association that acts merely as an agency to provide funds to buy equipment for a school has a worthy aim, but an aim that is much too limited. Should such an organization, on the other hand, devote itself to destructive, carping criticism, its attitude destroys its usefulness. In either circumstances a broader, clearer vision is essential.

"Parents need a deeper insight into the psychological and sociological principles underlying the educational process. Teachers need the intensive personal interest and the insight into child nature that good parents possess. From a fuller understanding between the home and the school will come the unifying and clarifying of aims, the harmonizing of attitudes and effective co-operation. Parent-teacher associations can play a most important part in raising the standard of efficiency in the schools of the province."

Europe Looks for Stocks of Food

Britain Has Stores for Year; Others Anxious During Crisis

By WITT HANCOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON (AP) — European nations looked hungrily toward the Americas today in a scramble to fill their cupboards for possible war and prevent the starvation that stalked the last conflict.

With the possible exception of Russia, no major European nation grows enough to feed itself.

For the past two years the principal European nations have taken steps to store up for a rainy day. Great Britain is said to have enough food stocks, together with normal production of the British Isles, to feed the country for one year without a single ship coming in.

Britain imports at least 50 per cent of her beef, mutton and pork and three-fourths of her wheat.

GERMANY'S POSITION

Germany's bumper grain crop, including wheat and other bread grains, is expected to total well over 28,000,000 tons. Field Marshal Herman Goering, Nazi economic dictator, recently ordered hurried building of more granaries.

Fresh meat is not very plentiful in the Nazi realm since farmers still are suffering effects of the pork crisis which began three years ago. It was asserted, however, that with 750,000 head of hogs and 263,000 head of beef on the farms, stored in refrigeration and canned, Germany could face the future confidently.

Usually well-informed sources said Italy had laid by only a comparatively small stock of food. Some purchases of wheat were believed made recently in Argentina. For her meat supply, Italy depends largely on Jugoslavia.

JOHNSON IS MANAGER

Minneapolis — Ivan (Ching) Johnson, former defence stalwart with New York's National Hockey League clubs and one of the game's colorful figures, signed yesterday to manage Minneapolis Millers of the American Hockey Association.

Banana production of Formosa (Chosen) was 52,000 tons in 1921; today, it is more than 160,000 tons.

Trustees Heard At P.-T.A. Meeting

The Mount View P.-T.A. met last week at Mount View High School when school trustees Nat Gray and Dr. Stanley Miles addressed the meeting. Trustee Miles stressed the need for such an organization and the essential need for co-operation between the association and the board.

Trustee Gray spoke at some length urging the association to work to make the community education conscious. He pointed to the recent survey as a field for study for such an organization. He felt, too, that there was the danger of dictatorship in education, if the community did not take an interest in forming the policy and philosophy of education, but left this solely to the experts.

The speakers said that Saanich could greatly improve its educational facilities if the community worked such a program, but pointed out that the trustees could do no more than carry out the wishes of those who elected them. He paid tribute to the teachers of Saanich, who, he said, in spite of the relatively low cost of education in the community, maintained a standard equal and higher than that of districts with a much higher per capita cost.

Basketballers Get Together

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

MANY BASEBALL critics are trying to hammer the fact into the heads of major league owners that the season is too long. Baseball can no longer afford to overlap the U.S. intercollegiate football schedule, especially when a club like the New York Yankees belts all the interest out of an entire league along about September 1. Attendance in Cleveland dropping to an all-time low, 474, the other afternoon, gives one a rough idea.

Only the mediocrity of its first division outfits has kept the fag end of the prolonged campaign from being a financial headache in the National League this trip. The pennant has been there for any one of them to run away with for weeks, but none has been capable of a sustained drive. As it is, enthusiasm in the three contending cities — Pittsburgh, Chicago and Cincinnati—is only half-hearted, as their representatives gallantly attempt to back into the dubious honor of taking a shellacking from the powerful Yankees in the world series. As for the remainder of the wheel, nobody cares.

Even New Yorkers pulled aginst a third consecutive nickel world series. Surfeited with championships, particularly on the American League side, they couldn't get steamed up about the last one. The Yankees have clinched their 10th flag in 18 years . . . six under Miller Huggins and four under Joe McCarthy. This is the third time that the men of Col. Jacob Ruppert have grabbed the gonfalon three years hand running.

Enough is doubly sufficient, and it will be a great relief to the good people of Manhattan to see them pommel an array other than the poor Giants. Big league baseball and its waning season bumps into some competition from the colleges this week-end, and is certain to play to even scantier crowds and press boxes October 1, when the schools offer such early headline cards as Yale and Columbia, Cornell and Colgate, Harvard and Brown, Pittsburgh and Temple, Michigan and Michigan State, Minnesota and Nebraska, and Ohio State and Indiana . . . to name a few.

World series games . . . certainly not the lopsided type that feature the Yankees . . . no longer match football games as attractions. So the fourth game of the series, which falls on October 8, will suffer in bucks office rivalry with such pigskin parades as those offered by Harvard and Cornell, Yale and Pennsylvania, Princeton and Dartmouth, Army and Columbia, Colgate and Duke, Notre Dame and Georgia Tech, Pittsburgh and Duquesne, Holy Cross and Manhattan, Illinois and Indiana, Wisconsin and Iowa, Minnesota and Purdue, and Ohio State and Southern California . . . again to name a few. The baseball bug is the football filbert, and he'll travel much farther to see football than baseball, particularly when he is fed up with one and hungry for the other. The baseball magnates would do well to keep out of the chilly air . . . get the world series out of the way before heavy firing starts on the football fronts.

14-Club Rule for British Golfers

LONDON—The Royal and Ancient Golf Club, ruling body of golf in Great Britain, decided last night to follow the lead of the United States in limiting to 14 the number of clubs a player may carry in competition. The rule will become effective next season. The United States Golf Association adopted the 14-club rule effective this year.

The golf ball sub-committee stated that it felt it soon would be necessary to change the standard ball to reduce distance, but it decided to contact the U.S.G.A. before making any change.

League and Dominoes Expected to Settle Differences Over Gym Use

Dove of peace hovers over the basketball factions of Victoria, following a round table conference last night between the executives of the Victoria and District League and the Dominoes and the grounds committee of the Victoria School Board. Trustee Walter E. Staneland acted as chairman.

The meeting, called to discuss the allotment of the High School gym, resulted in the interested parties ironing out a number of their differences and made the prospects for a settlement of the gym problem bright.

Tomorrow night the full executives of the two basketball groups will get together again with the idea of reaching an agreement over the use of the gym this winter. This agreement will be turned over to Trustee Staneland to be presented to the School Board for ratification on Monday night.

In opening the meeting Chairman Staneland stated the school board was the custodian of a public building valued at $500,000 and was anxious to grant the use of the structure in the best interest of the public and the game itself. He pointed out how the Dominoes had requested the use of the gym early in May, whereas the league had not put in an application until August. At the present time the Dominoes had been granted the gym for basketball on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights, Staneland said.

Staneland stated the gym was available for basketball six nights a week, except in cases where the school authorities needed it.

NEED SATURDAYS

Secretary Walter Yeamans of the league stated his association had 22 teams, and although the league might be granted the use of the gym three nights this winter it felt at a disadvantage in not being granted some Saturday nights. On those nights the gate receipts were the largest and the league needed them.

Johnny Johnson, president of the Dominoes, replied by stating his club took exception to several statements made by Yeamans at a recent meeting over the financial takings of the club. Yeamans stated he made them in good faith and had the best interests of the sport at heart and he was sorry if he had given anybody the wrong conception. He was working for the best interests of the league and younger players.

Manager Dave Nicol said the Dominoes were willing at all times to help the youngsters and the club was always ready to sponsor teams. The Dominoes had never had any say in how basketball was run in the province of British Columbia, the manger declared. "We are still willing to meet the league and settle this whole question," Nicol said.

Yeamans then asked the officials of the Dominoes if that club intended to affiliate with the Victoria League.

"Until we are certain we are going to be able to bring in teams from Seattle and play them we cannot affiliate," Nicol said.

Johnson then suggested the formation of a commission to govern basketball in Victoria. He would have it composed of three prominent business men who would have complete charge of the sport. "The Dominoes are not trying to dominate basketball," he said.

Frank Shandley, president of the league, thought the entire matter could be settled if the two groups would get together and co-operate. All the fault was not with the Dominoes he said. The league cannot operate without the Dominoes and the same applied to the Dominoes he said.

The meeting closed with a much friendlier feeling between the two groups, and it is expected a settlement agreeable to both will be reached at tomorrow night's meeting.

Bays Capture Boxla Laurels

Defeat Bluebirds in Final Game of Intermediate Series 16 to 11

Led on the attack by E. Pridham, flashy wing forward, who notched six goals, James Bay stickhandlers last night breezed through to a 16 to 11 victory over Harry Sargison's Bluebirds to capture the intermediate city box lacrosse honors, won last year by their opponents. The game was played under the floodlights at the Athletic Park and attracted a fairly good turnout.

The Bluebirds found their defence weakened considerably by the absence of their ace guard, Jack Cummings, but put up a game fight.

Coach Ted Menzie's Bays showed fine form in the first two quarters, and at the halfway mark were in front 11 to 4. The Bluebirds came to life in the third quarter and sank four goals to their opponents' two, but in the final session both teams fought an even fierce battle, with each squad netting a trio of goals, this giving the Bays a 16 to 11 verdict on the final count.

Bill Bousfield, star Bluebird player, was carried from the field with an injured shoulder after being heavily boarded behind his own goal in the last session.

Pridham topped Bay scorers with six goals to his credit, while Bousfield led the Bluebird scoring brigade with four markers.

Popham and Baker refereed.

Wilson also refused to discuss rumors that have linked with him the St. Louis Cardinals' managerial berth.

CUPID ON GOLF COURSE—It is hinted, but not confirmed, that Charley Yates, holder of the British amateur golf championship, who hails from Atlanta, Ga., is seeking a bigger prize than any he can win on the fairways—namely, pretty Jane Wilson of Mansfield, O., with whom he is shown on the links.

Grads Play Wichita

Edmonton Girls Will Open Defence of International Basketball Championship Saturday

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Grads, the women's basketball team that may have to disband because it is just too good, open a best of five challenge series here Saturday with Wichita Thurstons for the Underwood International Trophy. Grads have held the cup since it was put up for competition in 1923 and have defended it 44 times.

J. Percy Page, coach of the ever-changing team which has been "tops" in Canadian women's basketball for the last 20 years, has declared his troupe may have to break up because of lack of financial support for their home games. The cash customers, he indicated, were not getting a thrill any more from watching Grads breeze through to victory after victory.

Only about 3,500 turned out for Grads' latest series, a best of five-round against Canton Engravers that went only three games. Grads, strictly amateur and noted for never pulling their punches, trounced Canton 75 to 25 in the first game, while the challengers were still shaking the kinks out of their systems after an irritating five-day trip by train. Grads won the second and third games by scores of 79 to 52 and 68 to 32.

HAVE STRONG TEAM

Arrangements have been made so that the same thing will not happen to Wichita Thurstons, who are due to arrive here tomorrow night. Runners-up to a Galveston, Texas, team in the United States National Basketball Association tournament this spring, Thurstons boast a roster that includes several all-America selections.

Thurstons are bringing their complete team of 10 players, all of them natives of Wichita. Most of the players are newcomers to Edmonton, despite the fact a Wichita Thurston team was turned back by overwhelming scores when they challenged for the trophy a year ago. Two of the girls have played here previously with teams other than the Thurstons.

Crack sharp-shooter of the challengers is Myrtle Shiever, three-time winner of the N.B.A.'s free throw contest. Coach Buddy Reynolds believes she will mean the difference between victory and defeat for his team.

Max Baer Visits City, Not Fighter

Max Baer is in Victoria. But it is not the well-known heavyweight fighter. Despite the fact he has the same name as the well-known boxer and comes from California, the Max Baer registered at the Empress Hotel is no relation.

Early this morning a telephone call was received by the sports editor that Max Baer had arrived at the hotel. With visions of meeting the former world heavyweight champion the scribe hurried to the Empress only to learn he was in for a disappointment.

The reported Max Baer proved to be a gentleman from Placerville, California, who is visiting the city with his family.

BLUE BOMBERS WIN

WINNIPEG — Generating offensive power along the ground and in the air, Winnipeg Blue Bombers swept to a 20 to 0 victory over Minnesota State Teachers' College from Moorhead in an exhibition football game last night under United States rules.

Snead Takes Jackpot

Slammin' Sam First in Westchester Open With Score of 430 for 108 Holes; Burke Second

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—Hitting the biggest jackpot professional golf has had in recent years Sam Snead yesterday took down top money of $5,000 in the $13,500 Westchester 108-hole open golf tournament with a score of 430 and set a new record for one-year prize winning.

The fat cheque brought his earning since last January 1 to $17,572.83, more than double that of his closest rival. It also was more than $2,000 better than the previous mark set by Horton Smith in 1929, when he collected $15,500.

In the last two rounds, the Canadian open champion from West Virginia showed he had everything on the ball when the pressure was on and the prize worth while. Tied for fourth place, four shots off the pace, at the start of the morning round, he climbed into a tie for the lead with a 71 and went around the last 18 holes in 69, one under par.

The only Canadians to finish the tournament, Stanley Horne of Ottawa and Bob Gray of Toronto wound up far off the pace.

Horne fired rounds of 75 and 77 for 453 and Gray shot 79-74 for 459.

BURKE SLIPS

Snead's finish and Billy Burke's start on the final day proved too much for the popular Cleveland veteran, who won the 1931 United States open championship. Billy, who had slid from first place to fifth when he fizzled to a 78 yesterday morning, improved on that by 10 strokes with a closing 68. That was good enough only for second place at 432 and $2,000.

Paul Runyan, United States Professional Golfers Association champion, missed an 18-foot putt on the home green for a 70 and Bryan Nelson missed a 10-footer at the same spot for the same score, so they wound up in a third-place tie at 434 and split $1,800. Ben Hogan of Purchase, N.Y., shot a 71 and 436 for $700. Chandler Harper, 24-year-old Virginia open champion, fell off to a closing 75 for 437 and $600. United States open champion Ralph Guldahl, Metropolitan open champion Jimmy Hines and veteran Mike Turnesa tied at 439 and split $1,350.

Adanacs Start East Saturday

B.C. Boxla Champs Play Medicine Hat Monday; Canadian Series Oct. 7

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia lacrosse champions, New Westminster Adanacs, will leave here Saturday night for Medicine Hat, Alta., it was announced by officials of the B.C. Box Lacrosse Commission last night.

The Adanacs will play a sudden-death game with Medicine Hat, Alberta champions, on Monday and the winner will journey to Toronto, Ont., where they meet either Cornwall or St. Catharines for the Dominion championship. The first game of the best-of-five series for the Mann Cup, emblematic of Canadian Lacrosse supremacy, will be played in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, October 7.

The schedule previously announced by the Canadian Lacrosse Association, said the Pacific Coast team would play off with the Manitoba champions at Winnipeg, October 3, after the game at Medicine Hat, but failure of the Manitoba Lacrosse Association to effect a financial compromise with the parent body necessitated the abandonment of Manitoba's participation in the national playdowns.

ELKS REPLY

To the Sports Editor:—In answer to a letter which appeared in the Times on behalf of the Victoria and District Football League, wherein it is suggested that the Elks Football Club "held a gun" at the heads of the league:

1. The three men mentioned were not a delegation from the Elks Football Club.

2. The V.D.L. have been notified that the condition upon which they might get a franchise in the intercity league is that they appoint neutral men as president and secretary of the league and a neutral man as manager of the United team. Messrs. Yoxall, Bloomfield and Hall therefore offered their services to the V.D.L.

3. They also mentioned that they understood that application for affiliation must be made before 7.30 Monday night, so they would like a reply before that time.

4. Further, they reminded Mr. Mesher that the majority of last year's United team were strongly in favor of the formation of the Elks F.C.

5. The use of the words "ultimatum" and "holding a gun" is unwarranted, and the Elks F.C. wish once more to assure players and fans that their sole aim is to provide better football and to prepare a team worthy of entry in the Dominion championship series.

H. B. Witter Again Heads Shuttle Club

At the Willows Badminton Club annual meeting recently, H. B. Witter was re-elected president. E. W. Izard was chosen vice-president and B. A. Phillips, secretary-treasurer. Major J. C. Macdonald, R. Bagley, E. Pangman, C. J. Read, Mrs. W. Seatle and Miss K. Grogan were elected to the executive committee.

G. G. Barber was again chosen to direct the junior membership.

An increased membership over the previous year was reported. This also applied to the junior ranks. Owing to supervision last year it was found that considerably more interest appeared among the juniors and a higher standard of play was developed. This year's junior committee will be composed of Col. R. S. Worsley, chairman; Mrs. K. R. F. Dennison and H. B. Witter.

The treasurers' report showed the club was in fine financial condition.

Easy Table Tennis Victories Scored

The Liberty squad took the measure of Louis Nelson's Garage, 21 to 11, while Arcanum snowed under Fairfield, 28 to 4. The Renfrew crew rang up a 24 to 8 triumph over Aces, while MacDonalds swamped Hollywood Club, 29 to 3.

Jack Doyle Hands Himself Knockout

LONDON — Jack Doyle, the singing Irish heavyweight, neatly knocked himself out last night in the second round of his fight with Eddie Phillips.

Letting go with a round-house right, "The Irish Thrush" missed his opponent, fell between the ropes, and struck his head on the edge of the ring. He was prone on the floor outside the ropes with his feet on the press table when the referee finished the count of 10.

Doyle weighed 224 pounds, Phillips 191½.

Wenstob Gains One-sided Win

Scores Four Knockdowns to Take 15-round Decision From J. Tebo

EDMONTON (CP) — Eddie Wenstob of Edmonton carried his Western Canada heavyweight crown more jauntly than ever today after gaining a 15-round decision over Jack Tebo of Fairview, Alta., last night that saw him all but knock out his challenger in the final round.

Wenstob, trained more finelly than even his handlers suspected, weighed in at 176, spotting the 191-pound Tebo 15 pounds. Boxing so cleverly he kept Tebo from landing a telling punch through the first 10 rounds, Wenstob scored four knockdowns.

The former Viking, Alta., battler showed he had fully recovered from a bad cold that sent him to hospital early this summer. So freely did he score with his right that he had Tebo groping from a badly damaged right eye from the eighth round on.

The first knockdown came in the ninth round, was followed by another while Tebo was groggy in the 14th, and the last two came in the 15th. Tebo rose from the first three without a count, but on the last Referee Gerry Delaine reached nine before he staggered to his feet.

May Alter Racing Schedule in South

SAN FRANCISCO — The California state racing board through Henry Potter Russell, a member, suggested yesterday that the Bay Meadows and Tanforan racetracks each conduct one 50-day annual meeting instead of two 25-day meets.

Under the proposal, which Russell suggested as an economy move, the tracks would alternate at holding their one meet in the fall and spring. At present, each track has one 25-day meet in the spring and another in the fall.

The rest of the baseball world may be hanging on the outcome of the Pittsburgh-Chicago series, but what excites the Detroit Tigers, and most of the American League, is whether Hank Greenberg can sock three more homers between now and Sunday.

Big Hank hit his 57th and 58th circuit blows of the season yesterday in a short second game as the Tigers trimmed St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4 and 10 to 2. That broke a record in itself for it was the 11th time he had hit two or more in a game this season. But the question is whether he can equal or top Babe Ruth's major league record of 60, established back in 1927.

Greenberg has five games to go if rain doesn't interfere.

At this stage in 1927, Ruth had only 56 homers, but he made four in three days, belting No. 60 in the semi-final game of the season.

HALF GAME UP

Greenberg was the only one who managed to give 14 other clubs a look-in while the Cubs and Pirates battled in the series that means the National League pennant. Chicago's 2 to 1 victory, earned through a magnificent mound performance by sore-armed Diz Dean, reduced the Buccaneer lead to a half game.

Another victory today would put the Cubs on top, but they'd still have to win the final tomorrow to hold the lead.

For the rest of the clubs yesterday's games were hardly more than just playing out the schedule. The Boston Red Sox walloped the Philadelphia Athletics 11 to 1 behind Bill Harris' four-hit flinging, while the Cleveland

Documents Made Public in London Show Hitler Told Chamberlain He Intended to Terminate Czech Situation, Which Was "Unbearable"

LONDON (AP)—A declaration by Chancellor Hitler to Prime Minister Chamberlain that the Czechoslovak situation had become unbearable "and will now be terminated by me" was disclosed today with publication of correspondence between Mr. Chamberlain and Hitler.

The British Government issued a white paper disclosing the documents exchanged between the Fuehrer and the Prime Minister during their negotiations.

This showed that, as the two sat in their hotels separated by the Rhine at Godesberg last week Chancellor Hitler wrote to Mr. Chamberlain that Sudeten refugees were coming into Germany "of their own free will, based on the right of self-determination of nations."

He added it was "the irrevocable decision of the German Reich to give effect to this will."

The white paper disclosed that in his first letter to the Fuehrer written at Godesberg last Friday, Mr. Chamberlain said he was ready to put up to the Czechoslovak government Hitler's proposal as to the areas to be ceded to the Reich so Prague might examine the suggested provisional boundary.

Wrote Mr. Chamberlain: "The difficulty I see about the proposal you put to me yesterday arises from the suggestion that the areas should in the immediate future be occupied by German troops.

"I recognize the difficulty of conducting a lengthy investigation under the existing conditions and doubtless the plan you propose would, if it were acceptable, provide an immediate easing of the tension.

PUBLIC OPINION

"I do not think you have realized the impossibility of my agreeing to put forward any plan unless I have reason to suppose it will be considered by public opinion in my country, in France and, indeed, in the world generally as carrying out the principles already agreed upon in an orderly fashion and free from the threat of force."

To this memorandum, Hitler replied: "I have recognized gratefully that at last, after 20 years, the British government, represented by Your Excellency, has decided for its part also to undertake steps to put an end to a situation which, from day to day, and indeed, from hour to hour, is becoming unbearable.

"If formerly the behavior of the Czechoslovak government was brutal, it could only be described during recent weeks and days as madness.

"In a few weeks, the number of refugees who have been driven out has risen to over 120,000. The situation as stated above is unbearable and now will be terminated by me.

"I can only emphasize to Your Excellency that these Sudeten Germans are not coming back to the German Reich by virtue of the gracious or benevolent sympathy of the other nations, but on the grounds of their own will, based on the right of the self-determination of nations and of the irrevocable decision of the German Reich to give effect to this will.

MUST BE PROTECTED

"I am not prepared to allow a territory which must be considered as belonging to Germany to be left without protection of the Reich," Hitler said.

"There is no international power of agreement which would have the right to take precedence over German right.

"The idea of being able to entrust to the Sudeten Germans alone the maintenance of order is practically impossible in consequence of the obstacles put in the way of their political organization, particularly in recent times.

"It is impossible for us to refrain from giving immediate protection to this territory."

In a second letter sent last Friday, Mr. Chamberlain asked Hitler that "no action should be taken, particularly in the Sudeten territory, by the forces of the Reich to prejudice any further mediation which may be found possible."

MEETING PROPOSED

The final message sent by Mr. Chamberlain to Hitler Monday stated:

"A settlement by negotiation remains possible and, with a clear recollection of the conversations which you and I have had with an equally clear appreciation of the consequences which must follow the abandonment of negotiation and the substitution of force, I ask Your Excellency to agree that representatives of Germany shall meet representatives of the Czechoslovak government to discuss immediately the situation by which we are confronted with a view to settling by agreement the way in which the territory is to be handed over.

"I am convinced that these negotiations can be completed in a very short time and if you and the Czechoslovak government desire it I am willing to arrange for representation of the British government at such discussions."

QUICK SETTLEMENT

Chancellor Hitler replied that immediate occupation of Sudeten areas by German contingents was no more than a security measure to guarantee quick, smooth achievement of a final settlement which was indispensable.

He declared the Czechoslovak government would be in a position to drag out negotiations and delay final settlement.

Hitler said:

"You will understand after everything that has passed that I cannot place such confidence in assurances received from the Prague government.

"The British Government also would surely not be in a position to dispose of this danger by any use of diplomatic pressure.

"It is clear from my memorandum that German occupation would only extend to the given line and that final delimitation of the frontier would take place in accordance with the procedure which I have already described. The Prague government has not the right to doubt that German military measures would stop within these limits. If, nevertheless, it desires such a doubt to be taken into account, the British, and if necessary also the French government, can guarantee the quick fulfilment of my proposal.

"In these circumstances I must assume that the government in Prague is only using a proposal for occupation of German troops, in order that by distorting the meaning and object of my proposal to mobilize those forces in other countries, in particular in England and France, from which they hope to receive unreserved support for their own aim and thus achieve the possibility of a general warlike conflagration.

"I must leave it to your judgment whether, in view of these facts, you consider you should continue your effort, for which I should like to take this opportunity once more sincerely thanking you, to spoil such manoeuvres and bring the government in Prague to reason at the very last hour."

AT CZECH BORDERS — It was uniformed representatives of the Prague government like those pictured above—customs guard right and frontier defence guard left — who were involved in the first clashes with Sudetens on the frontier of Czechoslovakia. Now army units have taken over all duties of the customs force.

FOOD BY-LAW

The new draft of the proposed city by-law regulating handling of food for public consumption will be presented to restaurant men and hotel owners on October 11, the city health committee decided yesterday at a meeting over which Alderman John A Worthington presided.

Recently the committee and restauranteurs considered the first draft of the by-law and discussed changes in several clauses. Those alterations will be incorporated in the amended draft which will go before the meeting. Following approval of the regulations, they will be introduced to the council.

At yesterday's meeting the committee also gave consideration to a dwelling condemnation order, discussed the water rate for the Chinese hospital, heard a request from property owners and tenants in the vicinity of the new roller rink for action to reduce the noise caused by skaters, and considered other routine health matters.

Saanich Fair Is Praised

Hon. N. W. Whittaker Lauds Efforts of Agricultural Population

Lush produce of the fertile soil of Saanich farms, and fine livestock from Saanich barns, with the homecraft of Saanich wives, filled the exhibition buildings at Saanichton this afternoon for the formal opening of the 70th annual fair of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society.

It was the finest fair in the association's long history and hundreds of persons, including many from Victoria, passed through the gates to hear the fair opened by Hon. Norman W. Whittaker, K.C., M.P.P. for Saanich.

Introduced by George T. Michell, president, Mr. Whittaker said "this society holds a record which has not been equalled in western Canada. No other agricultural society west of Winnipeg can say that it has held a fair year after year without missing a single year since 1868.

"Today this fair holds first place among the rural fairs of British Columbia for attendance and variety of exhibits."

Mr. Whittaker paid tribute to the energy and enterprise of members in erecting a new building to take the place of one destroyed by fire. He spoke of the many advantages derived from such fairs.

"There can be no real prosperity without an active and progressive agricultural population," he said. "This fair plays a great part in the cause of agriculture in this section of the province."

He expressed the hope that coming fairs would be bigger and better and he said he was always willing to co-operate for the good of the community.

Judges were busy this morning placing the various awards.

Dr. W. E. Harper, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, was reported improved from an attack of pneumonia, contracted while attending scientific conferences in Germany last August. Dr. Harper is recuperating in Warnemunde, Germany, and plans on leaving for home around October 7. Accompanying him are Mrs. Harper and their daughter, Evelyn. They will leave Havre, France, in time to reach Victoria by October 20. They left Victoria last June.

Old Days Here Are Recalled

"Joe" Devlin Pays First Visit to City of Birth in Many Years

Paying a visit to the city of his birth, where he is renewing schoolday friendships and visiting old landmarks, is Joseph Clark (Joe) Devlin, who now makes his home in the Peace River country of British Columbia, where he and his father were among the first settlers 25 years ago. Mrs. Devlin is with him.

Mr. Devlin has not been here for years, and he is delighted to see so many of the boys and girls he knew here years ago and to see a number of the old schools and homes intact.

Old-timers remember the Devlin family in Victoria, for they were in the grocery business and had establishments at the corner of Yates and Broad and the corner of Simcoe and St. Lawrence Streets, in the James Bay district.

Mr. Devlin was born on Discovery Street. He started school at Kingston Street, and then went to South Park the first day it was opened. Among his schoolmates there were W. G. Lemm, Dr. A. E. McMicking, the Pendray brothers, Frank Bone and Victor Spencer. Later he went to North Ward School, where Miss Dowler taught him. He intends to see her during his visit.

This morning he recalled the May 24 celebrations at Beacon Hill Park and the Gorge.

"I remember one May 24," he said. "We were starting out from the harbor for the Gorge in a canoe. Frank Sehl and his sister Dolly (Mrs. Charles E Wilson) were in a canoe and they had a cake, which fell overboard. There was great commotion."

A popular music hall in those days was the old Savoy, and Mr. Devlin recalled the gay performances there.

Mr. Devlin's father was an alderman in Victoria when Theodore Davie was mayor.

Since leaving Victoria Mr Devlin has had an adventurous career in the north country. He and his father, who died in 1927, set out from Edmonton in 1914 with a horse team and bob sled and 1,500 pounds of provisions and went into the Peace River country as far as the trail led, to Pouce Coupe. Before that he went to the Yukon.

Later he was with the provincial police and served in such distant posts as Fort Nelson and Fort St. John.

Evening Classes Offer Opportunity for Extra Education for Adults

Night school classes arranged by the City School Board will commence October 3 and the complete syllabus and time tables are now available at the School Board office.

The school will be held in two terms, the first continuing from October till December and the second from January to March.

Claude Campbell, director of night school, will be at the City School Board office every night this week from 4.30 to 5.30 to answer inquiries concerning classes.

There are no restrictions upon students as to residence, and the evening classes are aimed primarily at affording an opportunity for men and women to continue their education in any special line beyond that they studied in school, college or university.

Many Canadian Volunteers For Czechs

MONTREAL (CP) — Many Canadians have volunteered for military service with Czechovakia in the event of war, Dr. Frantisek Pavlasek, Czech consul-general, said here today. Some of them are well-known fliers, he said. Consular officers have taken no action on their applications except to record their names, Dr. Pavlasek said.

IT'S NOT EASY TO KEEP UP WITH the world . . . It's not easy to afford the things you want, but find hard on your pocketbook those little things like driving a car, buying party frocks, tending a garden, brushing your teeth, buying new covers for your furniture, new dishes for your kitchen. Little things, yes. But they cost money, every one, and a lot more of those little things besides! Try them now. Phone E4175, the Daily Times Classified Ads Department.

Harold Lloyd At the Atlas

Famed Comedian Takes New Leading Lady in "Professor Beware"

Harold Lloyd returns to the screen in the new comedy that opens today at the Atlas Theatre, "Professor Beware." He introduces a new leading lady, as has been his custom in years past with each new film, in the person of Phyllis Welch, lovely young graduate of the legitimate stage and radio stations.

The picture, a typical Lloyd story, the like of which has made him world famous, deals with his mad dash across the continent to arrive in New York in time to catch a boat sailing to Egypt.

Plaza to Show Social Drama

Upton Sinclair, world-famous author, wrote the brilliant screen version of Eugene Brieux's celebrated French play, "Damaged Goods," which will open at the Plaza Theatre on Monday.

Mr. Sinclair, who also wrote the novelization of the play, with the approval of the great European dramatist, is the greatest of contemporary crusading publicists. He averages approximately one novel or biography a year.

"The sole purpose of the author of 'Damaged Goods' was to place before the minds of the public a number of most important facts and to drive them home by means of intense dramatic action," Mr. Sinclair said.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"Three Loves Has Nancy," now at the Capitol Theatre, tells the story of a small-town girl (Miss Gaynor) who finds herself waiting at the church on the day she is supposed to be married. She sets out, aided and abetted by Montgomery, to find the missing bridegroom, winds up as Montgomery's cook, can't make up her mind which of three suitors she loves, and amid many comical situations negotiates the bumpy path of true love.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Any girl can be glamorous if she is willing to take a bit of trouble.

So says Danielle Darrieux, Parisian beauty, who has been voted the outstanding glamour girl of the European screen. While acting the scenes of her American screen debut in "The Rage of Paris," now at the Oak Bay Theatre, the star paused to develop her theory that any woman could have "all the glamour she wants."

"The rules? Walk 10 blocks every day, eat sensibly and get plenty of sleep."

COLUMBIA THEATRE

A football suit got Ward Bond into pictures.

Bond, who plays a featured part in Samuel Goldwyn's "Dead End" at the Columbia Theatre, was on the University of Southern California football squad in 1928 when Director John Ford sent out a call for 14 players. He wanted to take them to Annapolis for "Salute." Bond was one of the 14 chosen.

No Thrills on World Voyage

Man and Wife Sail Ocean Waves in Small Ketch

SEATTLE (AP)—Youth or old age is the time for a gadabout life on the ocean's waves on a small yacht and as for thrilling sea adventures, well, Rogers S. Strout and his wife have not found them in 47,000 miles of such life.

On his small ketch, the 37-year-old assistant professor at Georgia School of Technology reminisced today at the Seattle Yacht Club moorings. The two plan an indefinite stay here.

"Please tell people the truth," he said. "We haven't had any desperate adventurers, we haven't been blown hundreds of miles off our course and going around the world this way isn't a cock-eyed adventure. It's a pleasant cruise.

"We sailed 1,000 miles up the Australia Barrier Reef without a pilot. The only way to get into trouble is to take a pilot along.

"And don't say the Igdrasil is spick and span."

The 47-foot ketch arrived here yesterday from Vancouver, B.C., after a summer in Alaska. Since building it in 1934, the couple passed through the Panama Canal, visited Cocos Island, Hawaii, Kodiak and other Alaska points, with stopovers.

A small auxiliary motor helps in making port but sails, a mainsail and two jibs forward and a mizzen mast and spanker aft, are used most of the time, he said

Strout writes articles as one way to aid in financing the trips, but has found difficulty in selling them in this country. He said they found a ready market in New Zealand, Australia and England. "We'll be here until I get a job and make some money," he said.

He regrets having gone to sea so late, saying the "time for it is as a young man or when one gets old, and not during one's best years."

A yacht club welcoming committee asked if the two listened to the Hitler oration.

"Listen to Hitler?" Strout asked, in astonishment. "Why should I listen to Hitler. He dosen't mean anything to me."

DOWN THE GANGWAY

On her 44th homeward voyage, Ms. Orangi, Capt. T. V. Hill, will sail from the Ocean Docks late this afternoon for Honolulu, Suva, Auckland and Sydney.

She will take out a large number of passengers in all classes. Her cargo holds will be well filled and her mail rooms full of letters from Europe and North America.

A group of Jewish refugees from Germany are among the most interesting passengers sailing on the Aorangi. They were forced to flee Germany in recent weeks and are going to Australia to establish new homes and pave the way for settlements of friends and relatives from other European countries.

Sir Bruce-Porter, distinguished London physician and surgeon, who has been at the Empress Hotel for the last 10 days with his daughter, Mrs. C. A. Johnson, is taking passage for Australia, in the course of a world voyage.

A number of Europeans, traveling in a party under the personal guidance of Countess de Vilme Hautmont are going on a pleasure trip to New Zealand and Australia.

Evans Paddon, champion sculler of Australia, who suffered defeat by Bobby Pearce at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto recently is another interesting passenger sailing by the Aorangi.

Down on the liner's "who's who" are E. H. Moston, O.B.E., of Auckland, New Zealand's delegate to the Labor Conference at Geneva, accompanied by Mrs. Moston; R. L. Grant, general manager in New Zealand for the British Empire Films Limited; Miss Stella Rubenstein, traveling to Auckland in connection with the opening of branches of the Helena Rubenstein firm of New York; R. E. Allen, representative of Swifts of Chicago, with Mrs. Allen; G. J. Evatt, head of the water conservation and irrigation commission of the New South Wales Government, returning to Sydney with his wife and daughters.

Others sailing include: Miss I. Calvert of Milne's Landing, en route to Honolulu; G. Blundell and Mrs. H. B. Blundell and Mrs. M. E. Admiralty May Take Cunarder

SOUTHAMPTON (AP) — The giant liner Queen Mary prepared today to sail for New York on what may be her last trans-Atlantic voyage as a passenger liner before being placed under government control.

Shipping circles said it was possible for the large Cunarder to be put under Admiralty control for wartime service without notice at any time if necessary. One official said: "The Queen Mary is always at the disposal of the government for wartime work, which we expected but do not now anticipate."

Yukon River to Close Shortly

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP)—Navigation on the Yukon River will be at a complete standstill by the first week of October, it was expected here today as unusually low water prevailed.

Difficulty already was being experienced in water transportation with a number of bars beginning to show on the upper and lower Yukon River, and tributary streams were running low.

In one of the longest open seasons known in this section, mining operations continued unhampered. No frost or snow was reported and flower gardens were still a riot of bloom.

Veteran Admiral Dies in England

LONDON (CP-Havas) — The death of Admiral Robert Anstruther, 76, former senior naval officer to the Newfoundland fisheries and admiral in charge at Hongkong from 1912 to 1916, was announced yesterday.

Admiral Robert Hamilton Anstruther, C.M.G., was born June 10, 1862, the third son of Sir Robert Anstruther, fifth baronet. After studying at Cheam school and aboard H.M.S. Britannia, he entered the British navy in 1875. Ten years later he was a lieutenant and was made commander in 1897. In 1904 he was promoted to the rank of captain, in 1915 was made a rear-admiral and four years later a vice-admiral. He retired with the rank of admiral in 1924.

Among his many honors is the Order of the Rising Sun of Japan.

GERMANS TALK

COLON, Panama Canal (AP)—Agents and captains of German ships calling at this port held a private conference yesterday on what to do if war starts in Europe Saturday at expiration of Chancellor Hitler's Sudeten ultimatum. They discussed whether to keep German ships in the Canal Zone or to send them to other neutral ports, attempting to evade British naval vessels patrolling the Caribbean.

COSMOPOLITAN SHIP

VANCOUVER (CP) — The tramp steamer Gemstone, loading logs at Lapointe Pier for China and Japan on her maiden trip, is a ship of all nations. Registered at London, she is owned by a Rumanian firm at Bucharest. Her officers are all British but her deck crew is Malay. One of her engineers is Swedish. One of several sister ships under construction for the Rumanian firm at Vlasov & Co., she is of the most modern type of British tramp design.

White members of the crew were distinctly worried about the war situation. It was even thought the ship might change her destination if Japan is drawn into the trouble.

Officers of the Dutch Ms. Marken of Silver Java Pacific Line berthed at Ballantyne Pier, were non-committal about the European situation. They were sure their country woulud keep out. Their ship has the word "Holland" printed in huge letters across her sides.

ITALIAN EXPLORER DEAD

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Filippo de Filippi, Italian explorer, died yesterday at the age of 69.

In 1897 he accompanied the Duke of the Abruzzi in an ascent of Mount St. Elias in Alaska. King George of England knighted him.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prospects of a peaceful solution of the German-Czechoslovak dispute brought excited selling to world wheat markets today. Sudden morning advances were generally turned into losses and Winnipeg wheat futures fell more than five cents after opening two cents higher.

At the final bell values were 3 to 2⅞ cents lower, October and November at 64¼, December 63¼, and May 66¼ to 66⅜.

In the heaviest trading session in months prices moved widely in the first 10 minutes, then headed to the day's lows. Canadian wheat and flour export sales estimated at more than 1,000,000 bushels partially steadied the jittery market near the close.

News of peace negotiations at Munich tomorrow caused the sudden change in trend.

Liverpool soared 7½ pence but final quotations were ¾d higher to ¼d lower. Rotterdam closed 8⅞ to 10⅛ cents up. Buenos Aires was slightly lower at noon and Chicago turned opening gains of 1½ cents into losses of around two cents.

Cash wheat dealings were overshadowed by action in the futures' pit sales of No. 2 Northern were reported with a spread improvement of ½ cent.

Barley and rye futures were down more than a cent with oats steadier on good domestic sales.

CHICAGO (AP) — Excited somersaulting of the Chicago wheat market today that accompanied sudden indications of European peace resulted in much lower quotations.

Prices were lowest of the day in the final dealings here. Wildness of the Chicago market was far exceeded in Liverpool, where a jump of 7½ pence was followed by a sensational break later on account of hopes of a peace settlement.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1⅜ to 1⅝ lower compared with yesterday's finish, December 65¼ to 65⅜, May 66 to 66⅛; corn unchanged to ⅜ off, December 50½ to 50¾, May 53⅛ to 53¼, and oats at ⅛ decline to ⅛ advance.

SAVINGS INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP)—Continued increase in savings accounts and an increase in deposits with the Bank of Canada featured the August 31 report of chartered banks to the Finance Department, made public today.

Stocks Push Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — A frantic half-hour buying rush, touched soon after the market opening by news of the four-power Munich conference for discussion of the Nazi-Czech dispute, turned an early decline in stocks today into a dramatic recovery.

Within a few minutes the atmosphere in Wall Street changed from deep despair for European peace into one of restored hope.

Some stocks soared four or five points from the early lows.

The market, after the first hour, spent the rest of the session defending its gain.

The British pound, quoted at $4.62 before the rally, jumped to around $4.75. At mid-afternoon it was $4.73¾, up 1⅝ cents. The French franc rallied to 2.66 cents, up .02¼ cents. But exchange quotations at times merely were nominal as dealers storve to keep abreast developments and to handle the shifting tides of capital.

Among bonds, foreign dollar obligations came back strongly.

Famous People of the Stage

III—MAUDE ADAMS

Maude Adams started her stage career when she was nine months old. She did not know anything about it, but it happened.

Maude Adams at age of 28.

A stock company was performing in Salt Lake City, and a baby was needed for a skit known as "The Lost Child." A baby only a month old was obtained, and was taken on the stage and off again. Then it began to cry so loudly that the manager did not dare send it in again for the last part of the act.

What could he do? Oh, yes! He could get a different baby! The actress known as Annie Adams had brought her little daughter to the theatre that evening. It was nine months old, but would do in a pinch.

So it happened that Maude Adams appeared on the stage for the first time. The audience must have noticed that the baby had "grown," but the play went on!

The real name of the baby was Maude Kiskadden, but when she later acted on the stage she dropped her father's name, and used her mother's. Her father died when she was only 10 years of age.

In company with her mother, Maude toured the cities along the Pacific coast, and often played children's parts.

David Belasco and Charles Frohman took interest in the child. Belasco gave her hints on acting, and tried to help her do better and better work. Frohman saw her in Portland, Oregon, and later—when she was 18 years old—asked her to join his stock company in New York.

Step by step, Miss Adams won her way to fame in New York. After playing several small parts, she became the leading women in "The Masked Ball," appearing with John Drew, the leading man. The play proved a great success, and was given night after night for a year and a half.

The greatest success of Maude Adams came in the plays of J. M. Barrie. For three seasons, she was Lady Babbie in "The Little Minister," and performed in many important cities.

Another Barrie play, "Peter Pan," brought her into even wider public notice. In scores and scores of cities, children and their parents crowded the theatre to see Maude Adams act as Peter Pan.

The great actress left the stage near the end of the World war, but she came back in 1931, and played Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." At the time of her return she was 58 years old, but she had kept charm through the years.

HOROSCOPE

Thursday, September 29, 1938

Labor comes under a benefic aspect, according to astrology. It is a date for successful conferences and favorable contracts.

Agreements between opposing union organizations will be reached, it is prophesied, but there may be serious clashes before peace is made.

A London astrologer predicts that Shirley Temple should not marry before she is 26, if she hopes to attain happiness. The years 1944 and 1945 are to be of special brilliance in her careeer.

Decline of totalitarian dictatorships is prognosticated. In Germany anti-Nazi elements are to gain, despite purges, and Mars is to cause trouble for Italy.

Czechoslovakia will have at least two years of grave unrest, astrologers foretell. Economic conditions are to cause much anxiety through the autumn.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of average fortune. Jealousy may affect the happiness of the young.

Children born on this day probably will be proud, determined and quick to act. Subjects of this sign usually are able to overcome severe obstacles.

Not all weather influences work quickly; the cold ocean current that affects southwest Africa in winter takes a year on its journey.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—My sister-in-law is a woman of 60, with a good husband two grown-up daughters, yet she tells my wife that she is craving for romance. I thing this is as bad as being unfaithful. What do you think? VERITAS.

Answer: Oh, no. Wrong thoughts are not as bad as wrong deeds, because they are usually just sort of vague dreams in which we think we would like to commit certain crimes which we really would never do. Most of us, for instance, have had murderous thoughts at time and felt that we would have an unholy joy in strangling somebody or carving out their hearts, but if it came to the pinch of killing we couldn't bring ourselves to slay a chicken. Also, most of us have lain awake at night planning some vengeance we would like to take upon some one who has mistreated us, but when the time came when we really could get even with our enemy we have done him a good turn instead of blasting him forever.

I imagine that there are very few married people who have not been unfaithful to each other in their thoughts even when they have not deviated by a hair's breadth from their marriage vows. But Darby has had his fleeting moments of temptation when some young and glamorous maiden has flitted across his pathway, and fat, middle-aged Joan has looked at some slim young sheik and felt her heart do a flipflop as she wondered what it would be like to have another taste of the angel's food of love and to feel kisses hot with passion on her lips. But Darby and Joan just toyed in their thoughts with a dream and then went back placidly enough to their nice, comfortable, unemotional domesticity, and no harm was done, as there would have been if they had had affairs with seductive strangers.

For a woman of 60 to crave romance is both ridiculous and pathetic. It is ridiculous because she is so far past the age when she has any allure for men and when she can inspire any feeling in them warmer than respect and lukewarm liking. Her beauty is a thing of the long ago. Her vial of magic is spilled, her wand of enchantment broken, and you feel like laughing at her and weeping over her when she still has the desires of a young girl.

IN ARMY MOVES—Youthful soldiers of Europe's armed camps, to whom the 1914-1918 "war to end wars" is a blurred childhood memory or a classroom history lesson, have been drilling daily in the arts of war, with Europe teetering near the brink for a fortnight. Typical of these light-hearted, youthful recruits are those pictured here. Lower, left to right, soldiers of France, Great Britain and Italy; upper, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

"Our Boys!"

CLEVER CHINESE "CATCH" BOMBS—Menaced almost daily by Japanese air raids, owners of buildings in Canton, China, have resorted to use of "bomb catchers," like the one over the roof of the building in the picture above. These protections are made of meshed steel rods anchored by stanchions.

MAN IN STREET—These are anxious hours for the British people. They crowd London's Downing Street, as above, to catch a glimpse of the powers-that-be in their government.

DIRECTS NAVAL MOVES—Leaving his London home to take up his new duties as First Sea Lord of Great Britain and Chief of the Naval Staff, Admiral Sir Roger Backhouse, recently appointed in succession to Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield, was seen as above by a cameraman.

AS SUDETEN NAZIS FILTERED IN—Armed fighting on some sections of the Czech-German frontier marked the systematic invasion of Czech border towns by Sudeten-German Nazis which began while international negotiations over Czechoslovakia's fate were still in progress. In the radiophoto above, Sudeten Nazi legionnaires carrying bayonets and blanket-rolls are shown entering Eger with girls in peasant costume to greet them. Men like these later barricaded roads leading out of Eger, but Czech troops moved in and reoccupied areas.

HOW MINORITIES WOULD CARVE CZECHOSLOVAKIA — Light line in map above shows the sliver of Europe that will be left to the Czechoslovaks if belligerent minority groups gain their loudly-demanded annexation to Germany, Hungary and Poland.

There won't be much left of the World War-born republic of Czechoslovakia if belligerent minority groups within the country have their way about it.

Sudeten Germans have been set to take their territory and get folded under the wing of Adolf Hitler. While this area was part of the Austro-Hungarian empire before the war, the Sudetens have long desired union with Germany. When Hitler rearmed Germany they began the agitation that now threatens to bring the dismemberment of the Czech state.

Taking their cue from the Sudetens, the Hungarians and Poles in Czechoslovakia are also manoeuvring for annexation of the regions they inhabit with the mother countries. While not as large as the German group, the Hungarians and Poles are just as loud and warlike in their threats against the harried Czechoslovak government. And the Hungarian and Polish governments are backing their threats.

The black areas in the map above indicate the portions of the republic where the Germans are in the majority. The shaded sections show where the other minorities are dormant.

If these areas are lost, the Czechs and Slovaks, who make up the greater part of the remaining population, would be left a tiny sliver of a country entirely at the mercy of Hitler's Germany. The Slovaks, although agitating as a minority group at times themselves, have supported the ruling Czechs in the current crisis.

There are about 3,250,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia, 700,000 Hungarians, and 80,000 Poles.

High-lighting Dramatic 20-year-old History Of Czechoslovakia

By WILLIS THORNTON

ALMOST exactly a year after the death of Thomas Masaryk, the "George Washington" of Czechoslovakia comes the test of the political unit he forged in the heat of the war fires of 1914-1918.

President Eduard Benes was Masaryk's colleague in creating Czechslovakia, and hence the history of that country as a political entity falls easily within the life of one man.

Prague, the Czech capital is the oldest city of central Europe, and the Czechs as a people are very old, but Czechoslovakia as it appears on the map today dates only from 1918. The country was created as an effort to solve the "minority problem" that has bedeviled Europe for centuries.

CZECHS ONCE MINORITY

The story of Czechoslovakia is short but eventful. Here are the highlights:

1914—Czech nation existed only in the minds of Czechs, who were all subject to the Austro-Hungarian empire and themselves a constant "minority problem."

1914-1918—Strenuous campaign of propaganda in France, Italy, Britain, Russia and the United States to gain Allied support for an independent Czech state. Masaryk and Benes among most active workers, Masaryk obtaining President Wilson's interest.

January, 1917 — Independent Czechoslovakia made one of official Allied war aims. Czech legion crosses Siberia and, by way of America, joins Allied armies.

June 30, 1918—American Czechs and Slovaks agree at Pittsburgh to back a united state of both nationalities, the Slovaks agreeing to certain local "home rule" features in foregoing their own dream of an independent Slovakia.

October 18, 1918—Independence of Czechoslovakia proclaimed at Washington, forestalling attempt of the crumbling Austro-Hungarian empire to reconstitute itself as a new federation. Provisional Czech government set up at Paris, obtains immediate U.S. recognition.

GERMAN EARLY DISSENTERS

November 14, 1918—First National Assembly meets at Prague, with representatives of all elements but the German, who refuse to participate. Masaryk chosen first president, Kramar premier.

1919—New government suppress attempted insurrection by Germans in Bohemia and Moravia. Communists invade Slovakia from Hungary, but are driven out. Border clashes with Poles are also frequent until peace treaties of Versailles and St. Germain.

1927—For the first time, German representatives accept posts in the ministry instead of contenting themselves with parliamentary opposition.

1928 — Long-standing dispute with Vatican adjusted as climax of series of internal reform and progressive social legislation.

1933—Rise to power of Nazis in Germany stimulates resistence of Sudeten Germans to assimilation.

1933-37—German leaders consolidate the Sudeten party inside the Czech borders, increasing both its demands and its activity.

March 12, 1938—German troops invade Austria, end its independence. Czechoslovakia partially mobilizes to guard against similar invasion.

September, 1938 — German-backed demands of the Sudetens for complete autonomy bring new clashes and a European crisis.

The Czech Legion of 100,000 men fought its way across Siberia to join the Allied troops in France by way of America, a military epic.

Thomas Masaryk was tireless in advancing the cause of a Czechoslovak nation, working in many countries, and even interesting President Wilson.

At Pittsburgh, American Czechs and Slovaks met and decided to combine their causes and fight for a united country to include both nationalities.

While disorder ruled as the Austro-Hungarian Empire crashed, the Czechoslovakian government was set up in Paris, Benes announcing its formation.
